COUNTY MEAT BOARD NAMED

Local Committee Appointed To Regulate War-Time Program.

Announcement of the appointment of a war meat committee for Marion county was made today by Frank G. Montgomery, chairman of the county war board. Formation of similar committees is being made throughout the country to assume the responsibility and leadership of the meat program. In charge of the nation-wide meat program is Chester C. Davis, administrator of the war food administration.

Harley A. Mayers, county farmer and a representative of the Production Credit association, was appointed chairman of the committee. Other members selected for positions on the committee include: A. J. Loudenslager, livestock producer; Paul D. Moyer, meat wholesaler; Dr. N. Siffritt, county health officer; Roy Garceau, OPA rationing board representative; and Fred Hoen, agricultural representative of the Chamber of Commerce.

First meeting of the committee will be held Friday night at 8 o'clock at the agricultural conservation office at 220 East Church street. J. H. Hargraves, meat supervisor for the Marion district, will address the committee.

The Marion county committee is similar to others set up to handle the war meat program, which is administered jointly by the various county war boards and the food distribution administration. An immediate problem confronting the committee is the routing of livestock slaughter into normal commercial channels. Effective functioning of the slaughter permit system and the consumer rationing program will depend upon special efforts of the committee. The promotion of sanitation in handling and slaughtering meat will be another duty of the committee.

The reviewing of outstanding permits and quotas to determine whether they are justified or excessive will be a prominent function of the committee. In the future it will have the power to approve or reject all applications for slaughter permits in accordance with the official instructions and procedure.

The committee will also have power to caution persons who are slaughtering meat without the necessary permits. Flagrant violations of the meat orders will be referred to the department of agriculture by the county committee.

The committee will especially be on the watch for black markets or any indications of black market practices in Marion county. Any meat that is slaughtered and sold outside of the rationing system will be considered as black market meat by the committee.

HERSHEY SEES SLOW RELEASE OF SERVICEMEN

Draft Chief Tells Governors of Proposal To Ease Pressure After War.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 22—Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national selective service chief, suggested today that releasing of eight to 10 million men from the armed services only as they are needed in business and industry might help relieve the pressure of possible post-war unemployment.

"If the eight to 10 million men can be demobilized at the rate they were mobilized or as they are needed on civilian jobs, this might help relieve the pressure," Hershey told the thirty-fifth annual governors conference.

He added that "we will keep under arms more men than we had April 1, 1940." He did not elaborate the statement.

Uncertain About Fathers

Hershey said he could not estimate when fathers would be called into service. In reply to a question from Gov. William H. Wills of Vermont, who said the question was causing "a great deal of disturbance in his state" because fathers were unable to plan for the future, Hershey declared the matter depended on variable factors and added:

"I wish I knew what the call was going to be for September. I suppose General Marshall (Gen. George C. Marshall, Army Chief of Staff) would like to know what the Japs are going to do in August."

Sources from which manpower may be gleaned before fathers are called, Hershey said, include single men holding agricultural or industrial occupational deferments but found not to be essential, and a portion of 3,000,000 deferred because of physical disability.

Regarding the latter, he said:

"I think many of them should go, but I'm having a terrible time selling them to the Army and Navy."

Shortly before Hershey spoke, Gov. Forrest G. Donnell of Missouri interrupted the conference to plead for concerted action to relieve a shortage of feed corn on American markets.

"This problem is urgent, critical and requires prompt solution," said Donnell, addressing Clifford Townsend, deputy war food administrator, a conference guest-speaker.

Marshall Speaks

The Tunisian victory exploded the myth of the Nazi superman, says Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff of the United States Army.

"The superman has had his day," the officers told the governors' conference last night. "The democracies have called his bluff."

Asserting psychological by-products of the African triumph have been "of immense importance," General Marshall said:

"There has been a rebirth of the French army with a splendid example of courageous and aggressive fighting power. The observing nations have seen selected German troops humbled by an extension and improvement of the technique that brought about the downfall of France.

"The allies have gained confidence in each other, and the allied fighting men, and the scales have so tipped that those nations who have been maneuvering merely to be on the winning side can no longer escape the conclusion that there is no victory in prospect for Germany."

Davies Praises Reds

Joseph E. Davies, former ambassador to Russia, expressed belief that had not the Red army stopped Hitler's eastern drive "the Germans might have overrun Africa; might have made Tunisia impossible, and might have made junction with the Japs in India and on the Persian gulf."

"Had that happened," he told the conference, "our enemies and

Wade Hammond Here for Manpower Meeting

Wade Hammond of Columbus, director of the United States employment service in Ohio and also director of the state war manpower commission, attended a meeting of the Marion area war manpower committee last night in the employment center offices on East Center street.

Only action taken by the committee was the adoption of regulations making the stabilization program of the local committee conform with those set up by federal and regional offices, Fred B. Scherff, manager of the employment center and director of the Marion area war manpower commission, reported.

Hearing of appeals placed with the committee was postponed until the next meeting, Mr. Scherff said.

Firemen, Police Lay Pay Raise Request Before City Council

A rather dismal financial picture for the city of Marion was held out by city councilmen and other officials when they met last night with committees of the city fire and police departments to take over a requested $20-a-month pay raise, but councilmen promised to "see what could be done" and gave some report for the departments at the regular council meeting next Monday night.

Spokesmen for both departments were heard, emphasizing that they felt entitled to pay increase in view of the higher costs of living and that they found it difficult to provide for their families and meet other expenses such as pension fund contributions and costs of uniforms on the present salary of $162.50 for regular firemen and patrolmen.

Councilmen countered with expressions of willingness to grant the increase if only the funds were available to meet it. However, several commented they felt that any pay increase should extend throughout all city departments and not be confined to the police and fire departments. One additional department formally entered the picture last night when the five employes of the city sewage treatment works submitted a petition asking for increases proportionate to those that might be granted the firemen and policemen.

185 On Payroll

Officials said there are a total of 67 employes in the fire, police and sewage treatment departments. The total number of persons employed by the city is around 185, City Auditor Elmer Shaw told the group.

The city auditor presented the city's financial outlook to the group at the request of Councilman Harry Wilhelm, chairman of the finance committee, at whose request the full council met as a committee last night to consider the pay problem.

The auditor discussed the situation for about five minutes, winding up with these figures: The city can reasonably expect to have received a total of $252,304.60 for operating purposes by the end of the year. It also can count on spending a total of $248,781.50 for the year to meet expenses, not counting whatever financial assistance it might have to give the city garbage and rubbish collection department, which last year needed a $5,000 shot in the arm from the general fund to wind up its year's affairs. The auditor commented that it is some $3,333.06 short so far this year but he didn't comment on what might be expected in the next six months. However, one councilman summed it up that funds now in sight will be needed to enable the city to round out the year with its bills paid, with possibly not more than two or three thousand dollars to spare. "And that," he commented, "wouldn't go far on pay raises.

Raises of $15,000 Asked

The pay increases for the three departments would amount to more than $15,000 a year, and to extend raises throughout the ranks of city employes would cost considerably more. However, councilmen took into account that half of the year is gone and that any increase granted now would be a five or six-month proposition so far as 1943 financing is concerned.

Lively discussions developed at times during the conference, principally between Mayor Snare and Fireman Stuart Jones, spokesman for the fire department. One came when the mayor commented that the firemen and policemen should not forget their pension benefits, adding that the pension not only is a rightful part of the salaries the men receive but also is one of the expenses carried by the city that stands in the way of granting a pay increase.

The fire department spokesman hurried to his feet. "I was expecting someone to say something about that," he said. Then he declared that of the fire and police departments were to get the public employes retirement plan now in general use, the city's contribution to that fund would far exceed the amount taxpayers now contribute to the pension fund. He also declared that although the pension might be considered by some persons as part

BRICKER SIGNS NUMBERS BILL

Provides Heavy Penalties for Promoters and Workers in Numbers Rackets.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 22—Gov. John W. Bricker today signed the "numbers" bill providing prison sentences and heavy fines for persons convicted of furthering numbers rackets.

The new law will become effective 90 days after filing with the secretary of state, probably within a day or so.

Sellers, solicitors and pickup men in the numbers racket would be subject on first conviction to a fine of $500 and six months imprisonment, and on second conviction to a fine of $1,000 and penitentiary sentence of one to three years.

Promoters of the numbers rackets would be subject on first conviction to a fine of $500 and six to 10 months imprisonment and on second conviction, to a fine of $5,00 to $1,000 and penitentiary sentence of one to seven years.

The measure also makes slight changes in the present anti-lottery laws limiting punishment to those who carry on lotteries for personal profit.

The governor held the measure for his full 10 days limit while he studied the possible effect of the amendments to the lottery sections when measured by the constitution which prohibits all lotteries.

It was stated he finally reached the conclusion that the lottery amendments probably would not violate the constitutional inhibition.

Showers on Bill-of-Fare for First Day of Summer

The weatherman calls the turn today, dishes out the longest day of the year and officially launches summer, 1943. Continued warm and scattered thundershowers make up the weather bill of fare.

Summer arrived at 2:13 a. m. today, according to the official weather calendar. The sun rose at 5:03 a. m. and will set at 9:04 p. m. giving Marionites 15 hours and one minute of daylight to work in victory gardens, attend the Little Grand Circuit races or do sundry chores chalked up for the day.

Yesterday's peak temperature was 80, within one degree of the highest recorded this year, a 90 on June 14.

Dr. C. J. Altmaier of Marion Heads Ohio State University Trustees

Elected Chairman for Last Year of Seven-Year Term on Board.

Dr. C. J. Altmaier of 424 South Prospect street was elected chairman of the board of trustees of the Ohio State university for the coming year at the board's annual reorganization meeting in Columbus yesterday.

Dr. Altmaier is now serving his seventh and last year as a member of the board of trustees. He was appointed to the post in 1937 by former Governor Martin L. Davey. Dr. Altmaier's seven-year term will lend next May 15.

Col. Carlton Dargusch of Columbus and Washington, D. C., assistant to Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey, was elected vice chairman and Hugh Nesott of Columbus was elected treasurer. Carl Steeb of Columbus was reelected secretary of the board.

The board is composed of seven members. One member retires each year and a new member is appointed each year by the governor.

U. S. RAIDERS IN FIRST DAYLIGHT BLOW AT RUHR

Follow Up 700-Plane RAF Blasting of Krefeld That Cost British 42 Bombers.

By The Associated Press

... [illegible] ... announced ... the Ruhr ... [illegible] ... the ... [illegible] ... RAF ... [illegible] ... a shattering assault on the Rhineland city of Krefeld.

More than 700 RAF bombers raided Krefeld.

Coincidentally, fresh ... [illegible] ... Fortress ... [illegible] ... Lorient quarters ... [illegible] ... of U. S. bombers attacked the Ruhr, production center of three-fourths of Germany's coal and two-thirds of her iron and steel.

American, RAF and allied forces in other situations supported the attack.

Heavy Blows in Mediterranean

In the Mediterranean, tremendous fleets of American and allied planes opened a full-scale offensive against the Italian mainland, showering many hundreds of tons of high explosives over a wide expanse from Naples to the southernmost tip of the peninsula.

Dispatches said 25 great fires were left blazing in the port of Naples and nearby Cancello. A single fire covered an area a mile in diameter.

A Rome broadcast admitted "considerable damage" as the allied pre-invasion barrage shifted from Italy's island outposts to the mainland.

Invasion Fears Mount

Meanwhile, axis invasion fears were reflected anew in a Berlin broadcast reporting that allied troops, landing craft and "a major British parachute force" were massing for the assault on southern Europe.

Underground (patriot) forces in France received an allied signal to "be ready to act any moment henceforth"—a broadcast made in the name of the "Inter-allied high command"—and London heard that German troop strength in France had been raised from 35 to 41 divisions, a total of about 650,000 soldiers.

Other reports said the Germans were feverishly strengthening anti-invasion defenses from the French Mediterranean coast to the Balkans.

Today, incidentally, was "der tag" named several weeks ago by the Germans for an allied invasion of Europe.

During the night, German raiders dropped bombs at scattered points in the greater London area and touched off two alarms in the capital, but little damage was reported.

RAF Loses 42 Planes

Forty-four RAF bombers were listed as missing in the attack on Krefeld (pop. 170,000)—the second night raid in a row on Germany—amid indications that it was one of the heaviest blows of the war.

By comparison, the RAF's biggest losses in the past included May 30, 1942—44 lost over

WAR BOND SALES LAGGING IN COUNTY

Total for Month Running Behind $311,040 Quota.

Sales of war bonds during the first half of June were far behind the goal, E. J. Schoenlaub, chairman of the county war bond committee, reported today. Sales for the first 15 days of the month totaled $77,537.50, while the quota for the same period was $155,520 (half of the county's $311,040) for the entire month.

Bond sales at the Victory House last week showed an increase of over $1,400 compared with the total for the previous week, according to the report from Miss Maude Gorham. Daily totals for the week of June 13 are: Monday, bonds, $412.50, stamps, $7.10; Tuesday bonds, $218.75, stamps $54.95; Wednesday bonds, $37.50, stamps $11.30; Thursday bonds $262.50, stamps $3.99; Friday bonds $1631.25, stamps $60.30; Saturday bonds $75.00, stamps $3.10. Bonds totaled $2737.50, stamps $116.65.

MINISTER SUSPENDED

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, June 21 — The southwest Ohio synod of the Evangelical and Reformed church suspended the Rev. Millard J. Flenner, 42, of Dayton, after finding him guilty of insubordination. Flenner was charged with organizing and serving a Dayton church without synodical permission.

Brothers in Navy Meet in Hawaii

Marion county brothers in the U. S. Navy who had not seen each other for many months were reunited at Pearl Harbor on Memorial day when a ship on which one of the brothers is a welder and shipfitter docked there. His brother is aviation machinist mate stationed in Hawaii.

The men are Eugene Briggs, seaman first class, and Robert Briggs, A.M.M. third class, sons of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Briggs of Fort Agusta. The parents received word of the meeting recently in a letter written by Robert June 5 in which he described docking of the ship and his visit with his brother.

Having heard the ship on which Eugene was stationed was coming into the harbor he went to the pier, searching for his brother in the crowd. "Finally," he related, "I saw a familiar face at a porthole and an arm waving like mad." He boarded the ship and "We talked all night," he wrote, because the sailors were not allowed to leave ship during the short period in which the ship was to be there.

Robert entered the service a year ago in April and Eugene entered in November.

War Summary

EUROPE—U. S. daylight raiders deliver first blow to Ruhr region. RAF loses 42 bombers on night attack in Krefeld.

MEDITERRANEAN—Huge fleets of allied planes bomb Naples and wide expanse of lower Italy.

PACIFIC—American fighter planes bag 14 Jap Zeros without any U. S. losses.

PRESIDENTIAL MOVE WITHIN 48 HOURS SEEN

Only Other Hope of Ending Strike Seen in Ickes-Lewis Conferences.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 22. Direct action by the White House was viewed today as possible within 48 hours unless the nation's 321,000 striking coal miners return to work before then.

Their latest walkout, third in seven weeks, has already begun to choke the war-vital steel industry, cause production war cuts in Alabama and Pennsylvania, some blast furnaces were being prepared to shut down and officials pictured the industry as close to the bottom of the gun in coal supplies.

Without presidential intervention, the only hopeful sign in the troubled coal situation was a series of conferences between Interior Secretary Ickes, government operator of the mines, and John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers. They met yesterday, kept silent about what was discussed. They resumed the talks today at Ickes' office.

Here was the situation in the coal fields:

Pennsylvania — 117,000 soft coal miners and 83,000 anthracite workers were idle in a complete shutdown. Carnegie-Illinois Steel said parts of its Pittsburgh coke ovens were banked already, and was preparing to shut down some blast furnaces.

West Virginia — All the 130,000 bituminous miners on strike.

Kentucky — 47,000 miners out, closing 200 mines. Still working were about 1,300 members of the Progressive Miners (AFL) and 8,800 non-union coal diggers.

Illinois — 32,500 of the state's 40,000 miners idle in 270 of the 335 workings, including all 25,000 UMW members in 200 mines. Half of the state's 15,000 Progressive miners also walked out in a sympathy strike.

Alabama — All 22,000 idle. Republic Steel at Birmingham announced a forced 50 per cent reduction in coke production.

Midwest — Indiana's 8,000 and Ohio's 21,000 out.

South — Joining walkout here all of Arkansas' 4,000, Virginia's 23,300, Tennessee's 10,000.

West — Oklahoma's 66 mines, employing 2,300 down; also idle were 6,600 in Colorado, 3,300 in Utah; 2,100 in Washington, 4,100 in Wyoming, 1,800 in New Mexico, 1,300 in Montana, 2,000 in Iowa.

Lewis and the UMW policy committee refused to interfere with the walkout which followed a two-weeks' truce between the miners and the operators. The war labor board which rejected the union's demands for underground travel pay and ordered the 1941 contract continued for two years, was represented as being just as firm in its stand.

Unquotable sources said the WLB served notice on Ickes any understanding he reaches with Lewis must conform to the board's directive.

Besides the old contract terms, the board granted the miners an increase in vacation pay and allowances for equipment which would raise their daily pay about 25 cents. Underground travel pay, the board insisted, contained a "hidden" increase that would not be allowable under the hold-the-line government policy and was a matter for the courts to decide. Chairman William H. Davies said the miners, on a six-day week, could average $49.60.

Lewis said it was a "yellow dog" contract and would have nothing to do with it.

If usual procedure is followed, the WLB would certify the mine walkout to the president as a case of non-compliance, asking him to enforce its orders. This is usually done after the lapse of a few days.

FBI SEIZES SEVEN ON SABOTAGE CHARGES

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 22 — J. Edgar Hoover announced today that seven persons had been arrested at Rochester, N. Y., on charges of sabotage in connection with allegedly faulty manufacture of incendiary bombs and hand grenades for the United States armed forces and their allies at the Antonelli Fire Works Co., Inc., Spencerport, N. Y.

Hoover, director of the federal bureau of investigation, said that those arrested were charged with "willfully failing to properly load the powder charge in the bombs and grenades," and it was charged that there were attempts made also to pass material previously rejected by the Army inspectors.

CRESTLINE MAN DIES IN JAP PRISON CAMP

Pvt. J. H. Helfrich One of Four Ohioans in List.

The war department announced today that messages through the International Red Cross from Japan have brought the names of more than 300 American soldiers, including four Ohioans, who have died in prison camps since the fall of Bataan and Corregidor, the Associated Press reported.

Included in the list was Pfc. James H. Helfrich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Helfrich of Crestline. The Star published details of his being reported missing in action and later reported dead when his parents were informed of his death by a message from the International Red Cross May 20. He was a prisoner of the Japanese and was interned at a camp in the Asiatic area.

Malarial diphtheria, dysentery, pneumonia and beriberi were listed as the major causes of death.

Other Ohioans listed were Pfc. Philip E. Killinger of Pomeroy, Cpl. Sam Kukasky of Peninsula and Pfc. Mike Prijaga of Yorkville. They were interned in a prison camp on the Philippine Islands.

At the same time the war department announced the names of six Ohio soldiers who are held as prisoners of war by Germany and Japan. Master Sgt. Norris Crisan of Masury was reported interned by Germany, and the following were interned by Japan: Pvt. Olen J. Gilson of East Liverpool, Pvt. Eugene C. Greenfield of Bayard, Pvt. Edward M. Haines of Flushing, Pvt. Charles Riedmiller of Milford Center and Pvt. Charles R. Taylor of Salem.

CRIPPLED FORTRESS BAGS 5 ATTACKERS

Thunderbird Limps Back to Base After Setting Record.

By DANIEL DE LUCE.
By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, June 22.—Back from a mission of death over Messina with 140 holes in its green metal body and five German fighter planes to its credit, the Flying Fortress Thunderbird limped to the safety of Pantelleria island on only two of its four big engines.

Officially reported missing after an attack against Sicily's chief communications center last Friday, the Thunderbird came back with a record for bombers in this war theater by destroying five of 15 ME-109S which attempted to send it flaming into the sea.

The Thunderbird was approaching the harbor at Messina when two of its engines cut out.

Bombardier Lieut. E. J. Malloy, of Jefferson, O., dropped his big load of explosives, however, and the Thunderbird descended almost to the surface of the sea for the attempt to get home.

Suddenly, 15 Messerschmitts swarmed on the ailing giant.

"The enemy birds would only attack from one direction," Lieut. R. L. Sims recounted. "As they shocked their bellies over us we opened up on them and knocked down one after another. It sure was swell shooting. We feel like league champions."

Bombardier Malloy got one of the German planes.

Guards Examined for Reenlistments

Twelve physical examinations for reenlistees of Co. H were completed Sunday at the City hospital by Dr. T. H. Sutherland and Dr. Frank Thomas.

Three recruits are needed if the company is to attend Camp Zaleski during the wek of July 4 with all members. Capt. Carl Ebert reported today that the adjutant general's department stressed the fact that the age limit for the Ohio State Guard is from 18 to 64.

Regular school will be held tonight at the Armory and the schedule for the fourth day at camp will be discussed. Physical examinations will be held tonight for men who wish to join in time to be included in the camping week.

Former Marion Nurse Lands in North Africa

Word has been received here of the arrival in North Africa of Lt. June Howe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Howe of Middletown, formerly of Marion. She reached Africa May 12. Before enlisting in the nursing corps last October she was employed at City hospital. She is a graduate of Harding High school and of the Christ hospital school of nursing in Cincinnati. While employed at City hospital she made her home with Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Hemmerly of 229 East Fairground street.

PLEA ISSUED FOR SAFETY ON FOURTH

Governor and Highway Chief Sound Accident Warning.

COLUMBUS, June 22 — Put Victory first on the Fourth!

That is the message from Governor Bricker and Highway Director H. G. Sours to Ohio's more than 7,000,000 men, women and children.

Public officials, leaders in safety activities and citizens everywhere in the state are asked to enlist in this July Fourth campaign to prevent accidents.

"Accidents waste manpower, material and time vital to Victory," Governor Bricker said. "We are going to celebrate American independence on July Fourth. Our men and women in the armed forces throughout the world will be fighting to preserve that independence. We at home must not jeopardize that independence by causing accidents which impede the fight to maintain it."

Director Sours, who has instructed the department's division of traffic and safety to accelerate the fight against traffic accidents over the July Fourth week-end, has asked the Ohio Traffic Safety Council to give the campaign its full support.

He said: "Prevention of all accidents is more than ever the patriotic duty of every citizen. Accidents keep weapons and supplies from our fighting forces."

Instructor at Marion Airport Next Sunday

Lt. W. R. Reichenstein, executive officer, Marion Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol announced today that an instructor will be at the Marion airport Saturday and Sunday to give flight instructions to members of the CAP. Instructions will begin about 2 p. m. both days and will continue until about 9 p. m. This will mark the first time a flying instructor has been at the local airport since Alvin A. Freeman, former operator of the port, joined the armed forces as a pilot instructor.

"Molly McGee speaking—about the War!"

"Mind if I talk about the War for a minute? It's a subject pretty close to every woman these days. Most women are doing something about it, and lots of us could be doing more. But as long as American boys are fighting and dying, none of us can possibly do enough.

"I get letters from women all over America, and many of them read like this: 'Molly McGee, I save waste kitchen fats, flatten tin cans, collect metal scrap and buy War Bonds . . . and that's fine. But it isn't enough—I don't have that God-given feeling of satisfaction that comes with doing all I can in this War. What more can I do?'

"So we asked the War Manpower Commission for suggestions on War Womanpower. And here they are, girls—the things women can be doing to beat the Axis!

"Every woman who can, should take a full or part-time job where she'll be most useful. A few of the jobs are listed below. And remember this: even the least of them is terribly important, and needs to be filled right now!"

"Will you take one of these War Jobs?"

Nurses and Attendants for Hospitals, Public Health and Dental Clinics, Industrial First Aid Stations, etc.

Teachers of all elementary and high school grades, Librarians, Social Workers, School Clerks and Stenographers.

Bus Drivers, Street Car and Train Conductors, Ticket Sellers, Baggage Clerks, Railroad Section Hands...other jobs in transportation.

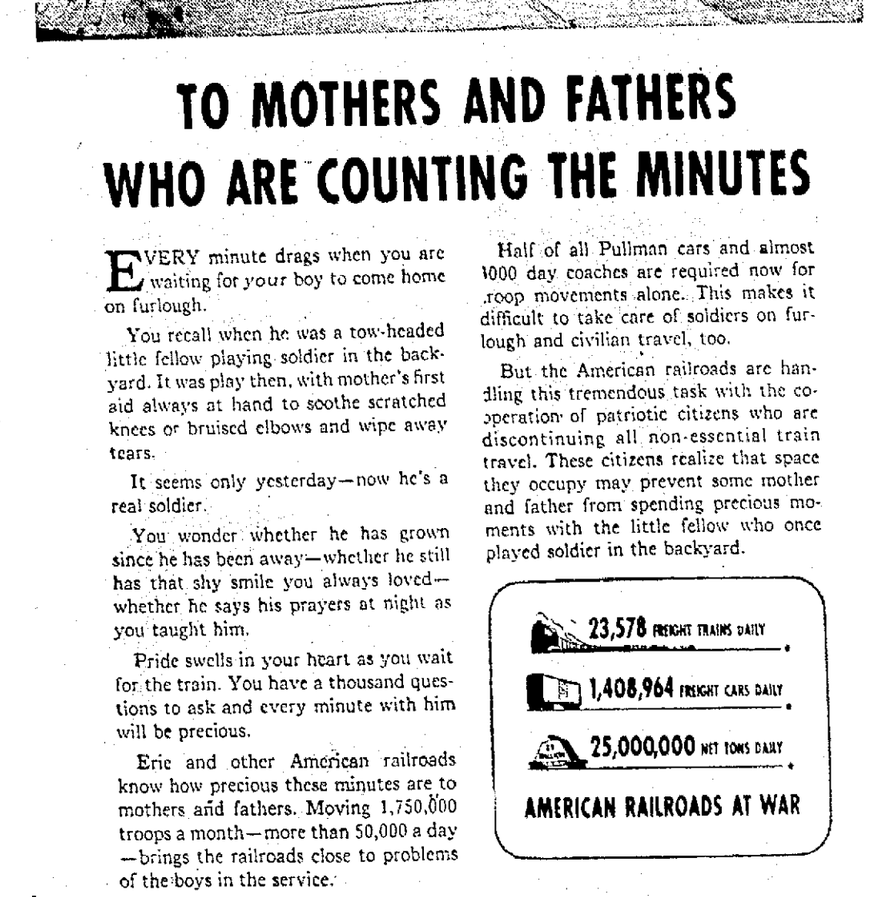
Telegraph Operators and Messengers, Switchboard and Teletype Operators and other communications work.

Day Nursery Supervisors, Playground Instructors and other jobs working with children.

Dieticians, Cooks, Kitchen Helpers . . . there are lots of vacancies in Industrial Nutrition, also public eating places.

Laundry and Dry Cleaning Workers of every description, Hotel help, Department Store and Retailer personnel.

The U. S. Employment Service in or near your community has a list of urgent vacancies you may be able to fill . . . jobs where women can replace men for active service.



TO MOTHERS AND FATHERS WHO ARE COUNTING THE MINUTES

EVERY minute drags when you are waiting for your boy to come home on furlough.

You recall when he was a tow-headed little fellow playing soldier in the backyard. It was play then, with mother's first aid always at hand to soothe scratched knees or bruised elbows and wipe away tears.

It seems only yesterday—now he's a real soldier.

You wonder whether he has grown since he has been away—whether he still has that shy smile you always loved—whether he says his prayers at night as you taught him.

Pride swells in your heart as you wait for the train. You have a thousand questions to ask and every minute with him will be precious.

Erie and other American railroads know how precious these minutes are to mothers and fathers. Moving 1,750,000 troops a month—more than 50,000 a day—brings the railroads close to problems of the boys in the service.

Half of all Pullman cars and almost 1000 day coaches are required now for troop movements alone. This makes it difficult to take care of soldiers on furlough and civilian travel, too.

But the American railroads are handling this tremendous task with the cooperation of patriotic citizens who are discontinuing all non-essential train travel. These citizens realize that space they occupy may prevent some mother and father from spending precious moments with the little fellow who once played soldier in the backyard.

Radar Opened Aleutians For Military Exploitation

Islands Previously Regarded Almost Useless Because of Weather.

Dr. Albert H. Taylor, above, chief Navy physicist and superintendent of the radio division of the Naval Research Laboratory in Washington, was a central figure in early work leading to developments in Radar.

First units of Radar, miraculous new "eyes" of the Army and Navy, went into the Pacific fleet almost exactly a year before Pearl Harbor. It is an American development based on radio discoveries by Dr. Albert Hoyt Taylor of the Naval Research Laboratory, largely perfected by Robert M. Page, another NRL scientist, and vigorously promoted by Rear Admiral Harold G. Bowen. Here is the second of six daily installments of the story of this superweapon as told by John M. Hightower of The Associated Press.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
(Copyright, 1943)
By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 22.—One of the recent miracles of Radar almost certainly is the Aleutians campaign. Despite the complete absence of official information on the subject, modern warfare obviously would be virtually impossible along that fog-cursed island chain without the aid of this new weapon to explore the way and report the hidden mountains and uncharted rocks which menace every movement of ships and planes.

The change in attitude of American officers toward the military potentialities of the Aleutians is one of the remarkable revolutions in military and naval thinking of the war in this country. Only two or three years ago the islands were considered to be almost useless because of their weather, which is probably worse than any other weather on earth.

Now they are recognized as having great strategic value. Credit for the change in opinion must surely go to Radar—the wizardry of which, we may assume, has been profitably employed in clearing the short northern road to Tokyo.

Invaluable To Convoy.

In the Atlantic, Radar has been found invaluable in convoy operations. It enables task force commanders to maintain constant checks on the ships in their charge, despite darkness and bad weather. It keeps them fully informed, too, on the presence of surfaced enemy submarines for miles around.

The use of Radar in convoy escorting closely approximates the original tactical purposes of the apparatus as outlined by Dr. Albert Hoyt Taylor, of the Naval Research Laboratory, and an associate, Leo C. Young, in a memorandum to the Navy department in September, 1922. They made the then revolutionary suggestion that with radio detection equipment, destroyers operating on parallel lines several miles apart could promptly discover the passage of an alien vessel between the lines "irrespective of fog, darkness or smoke screen."

But scientists are not professional naval men and then, at least, they did not speak in the high councils of the seagoing force. Conversely, few naval men are scientists, regardless of their abilities as tacticians and strategists with recognized weapons. The suggestion by Taylor and Young apparently made little impression on the men who could have given a go-ahead, because for eight years their memorandum got no approval, support or results whatever.

Foresaw Tactical Uses.

Taylor and Young, however, had made not only the basic discovery necessary to the development of radio equipment but also has envisioned its tactical uses. The discovery came about, as is so often true in scientific work, as a by-product of another problem they were working on and—a fact which also is true of much research—it had more than one important use.

Dr. Taylor had been interested in radio for many years. A graduate of Northwestern University and of Goettingen, Germany, where he attained his doctorate, he had taught at the University of Wisconsin, served as professor and head of the physics department at the University of North Dakota. From the latter school he went into the Navy in 1917 as a lieutenant (he later became a commander), and was made district communications superintendent at the Great Lakes Station.

Young and another associate in radio work, Louis A. Gebhard, entered the naval service about the same time and were assigned to Taylor's command at Great Lakes.

Both now are associate superintendents of the radio division which Taylor heads, having worked with him continuously since their first associations.

After the war, when the three men had left the Navy's uniformed ranks, they continued their work near Washington at the naval air station, Anacostia—the Research Laboratory had not yet been started. Their general problem was improvement of inter-plane and plane-ground radio communications.

Broadcasting Experiments.

In 1921 their experiments took them into the field of radio broadcasting. By the summer of 1922, long hours of study and laboratory research had brought constant improvements in equipment and methods, and Taylor and Young were spending gruelling hours under a blazing Washington sun broadcasting from a fixed transmitter to a portable receiver on the Virginia side of the Potomac river. They were working with the new super-frequency, or short waves.

At the outset of these experiments they noticed that ships moving up and down river distorted or "obscured" their signals, as radio experts put it.

Here was the new idea.

Almost since the discovery of radio 40 years before, it had been known that large obstacles, a mountain or great building, caused distortion in the wave pattern.

But never before had it been recognized that so small an object as a ship would produce a similarly noticeable result.

That was the first discovery, the great principle, which the naval laboratory scientists contributed to the development of Radar.

The next big forward step came in 1925 when Gebhard completed development of the first radio transmitting equipment embodying the electronic "pulse" principle now used in Radar equipment.

Broadcasting of high-frequency pulses permitted the use of greater radio energy without blanketing out receiving equipment during the period of reception of a weak echo. It thus became possible for the transmitter to throw out a series of pulses (their speed is at the rate of eight times around the world in a second) against the iono sphere—the world's electrical roof about 150 miles up—and for the receiver to pick up the reflected waves between each pulse.

Another Great Step Forward.

On June 24, 1930, radio detection took another great step forward—and again it was incidental to other research. Up to that time the Navy's radio scientists had been interested primarily, so far as detection was concerned, in the tactical possibilities of discovering enemy ships at sea.

On that notable June day, Taylor, Young and L. A. Hyland, a scientist now associated with the Bendix corporation, were working on a high-frequency blind landing system for aircraft. They had their apparatus set up at Bolling Field, the Army air station at Washington, with Young operating a transmitter and Hyland a receiver some distance away.

The experiment did not go very well so far as Hyland was concerned. He was worried by the fact that periodically the pattern of waves he picked up showed considerable interference.

He checked his equipment but it was in good working order. He studied the landscape but found no source for the interference he was getting.

Finally he noticed that the interference occurred only when a plane passed through the zone of radio activity created by Young's transmitter. Hyland checked his observation three or four times and then excitedly reported his discovery to Taylor and Young.

"I don't believe it, but it's so," Hyland said.

"We all got pretty excited," Taylor recalled recently. "We knew that anything which would detect planes would be of enormous importance in defense."

Traffic Institute Opens at Ohio State

COLUMBUS, O., June 22—The National Institute for Wartime Traffic Training, second of its kind since the war began and sixth in recent years, opened yesterday at Ohio State university for a two-week session of intensive training in wartime highway traffic problems.

Under the joint auspices of 10 national traffic and safety organizations, the institute is offering seven one-week and two two-week courses, streamlined to meet the needs of war-burdened highway transportation. A special seminar on war worker transportation problems will highlight the second week of school.

Officials of the institute point out that one way in which the severe manpower problems which face police departments, motor vehicle bureaus, commercial fleet operators and others can be met, is by increasing the effectiveness of replacement personnel and those still in service, through intensive training.

The brink of Niagara Falls is receding at the rate of two and a half feet a year.

The TIRE OF TOMORROW is here TODAY!

THE WORLD-FAMOUS
FIRESTONE DeLuxe Champion TIRE
IS NOW BEING MADE WITH
Firestone Butaprene
THE MARVELOUS New SYNTHETIC RUBBER

JUST as you'd expect, Firestone is FIRST to build the tire of tomorrow for the car owners of America. It is only natural that Firestone should be the leader in working out new processes, in creating new compounds and in building better tires from American-made rubber, for Firestone has always been the pioneer in developing new materials, new methods and new machines that have resulted in tremendous advancements in tire design, construction and performance.

From Firestone have come such revolutionary improvements as the FIRST straight side tire, the FIRST rubber non-skid tread, the FIRST commercial demountable rim, the FIRST patented Gum-Dipping Process, the FIRST balloon tire, the FIRST Safti-Lock Cord Body, the FIRST Super-Speed Construction and the FIRST practical pneumatic tractor tire.

In 1933, Firestone built the FIRST synthetic rubber airplane tires for our armed forces. In 1934, Firestone built its FIRST synthetic rubber passenger car tires. In 1940, Firestone FIRST went into production on synthetic rubber passenger car tires and began the manufacture of its own synthetic rubber, called Butaprene, the same type that was later adopted by the Government. In 1942, Firestone became the FIRST company to produce synthetic rubber in a Government-owned plant and later became the FIRST to make synthetic rubber using butadiene made from grain alcohol. And today Firestone is making synthetic rubber tires for passenger cars, trucks, buses, airplanes, tractors, farm implements and all types of war vehicles.

All of these years of experience, all of the knowledge that made these FIRSTS possible have been called upon in producing the new Firestone DeLuxe Champion Tire made with Firestone Butaprene. It is now ready for the car owners of America as released by the Government. But do not think that the crisis is past. America's greatest rubber supply is still on the wheels of its 27,000,000 cars. So you must continue all of the rubber conservation measures that have been so effective. However, if you are eligible and require new tires, remember this — in mileage, in strength and in safety the new Firestone DeLuxe Champion Tire upholds the Firestone tradition of "Best in Rubber — Synthetic or Natural."

Listen to the Voice of Firestone with Richard Crooks and the Firestone Symphony Orchestra, under direction of Alfred Wallenstein, Monday evenings, over N. B. C.

Let's help our farmer neighbors with their hauling problems

AMERICA'S farmers have the tremendous responsibility of raising more food this Summer than ever before in the nation's history.

Farm manpower is scarce. Every hour of every farmer's time is vital to victory. Let's help conserve it.

Don't keep any farmer waiting

Owners of stores, operators of markets, warehouses, elevators, terminals and processing plants, can aid substantially in the success of the "Food for Victory" program by expediting the loading and unloading of farm products.

Every farmer is an essential home front soldier. Don't keep him waiting. He has a long way to go and no time to waste.

Studebaker dealers are co-operating

Studebaker dealers go out of their way to help obtain parts for all makes of trucks.

They co-operate further by handling special repair jobs for farmers as fast as possible.

Many Studebaker dealers have special facilities for locating used trucks, that have been idle or in part-time use, for sale to farmers.

Keep your car and truck up to par

All trucks and cars must be kept in good shape to safeguard the nation's vital transportation life lines. And that's especially important this Summer.

Drop in for regular inspections. Studebaker dealers' mechanics are Essential Transportation Workers who can spot and correct truck or car trouble before it becomes serious.

Ask for free copy of Studebaker's valuable, new, 48-page book, "Care and Maintenance of the Farm Truck"—or write Studebaker Truck Division, Dept. N, South Bend, Indiana.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyce are at home at 9317 Amesbury avenue in Cleveland. Mr. Boyce is stockroom manager of the National Carbon Co. in Cleveland. Mrs. Boyce, who teaches school at the Empire Junior High school in Cleveland, is a graduate of Harding High school.

The couple are leaving this week for New York where Mrs. Boyce will complete study for her masters degree in consumer education at Columbia university.

W. E. Bricker of Claridon, formerly of Agosta, is announcing the marriage of his daughter, Kathleen, to Paul C. Gracely, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Gracely of near Agosta. The double ring ceremony was read Saturday at 11:30 a. m. at the parsonage by Rev. M. J. Plotts, pastor of the Methodist church in Payne, O., former pastor at Agosta.

For her wedding costume Miss Bricker chose a street length dress of dusty aqua sheer crepe and beige accessories. She wore a corsage of Talisman roses and gypsophila. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Holverstott were the only attendants. Mrs. Holverstott wore a brown and beige jersey dress with matening accessories and had a corsage of Johanna Hill roses and gypsophila.

Following the ceremony, the couple left for a short wedding trip. Mr. and Mrs. Gracely will make their home on a farm near Agosta.

Miss Catherine Hall, daughter of Mrs. George Parks of 746 Davids street, became the bride of Ralph Shafer, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Shafer of 1098 West Center street, in a single ring ceremony read by Rev. Ernest Finkenbiner at the Emmanuel Baptist church 12:30 p. m. Sunday before members of the immediate families.

Mrs. Ray Hansen of Prospect, friend of the bride, and Harold Gerlach, the bride's brother, attended the couple.

The bride was attired in a street-length blue net dress over blue satin with white accessories and a shoulder of corsage of gardenias. Her maid-of-honor wore a rose dress with white accessories and a gardenia corsage.

A reception in the form of a buffet lunch at the newly furnished home of the couple at 1030 Congress street followed the ceremony. After a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Shafer will be at home at the above address.

Mr. Shaffer is an employe of the Erie railroad, and the bride is employed by the Gallaher Drug Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Forbis of 195 Silver street are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Evelyn, to Richard Putney of 283 Pearl street, which took place Saturday. The ceremony was read by Rev. P. E. Smoke, pastor of Calvary Evangelical church, at the parsonage on East Church street. In the presence of the immediate families and close friends of the couple. The attendants were Mrs. Fred Hopper Jr. and Keith H. Williams. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Putney of 283 Pearl street.

For her wedding Miss Forbis chose a powder blue dress with which she wore white accessories. Both the bride and bridegroom are graduates of Harding High school. They will be at home at 195 Silver street.

The Green Camp Methodist parsonage was the scene Saturday evening of the wedding of Mrs. Essel Belle Geiser and Garfield H. Baldwin, both of Cardington. The ceremony was performed by Rev. T. A. Ballinger of the Green Camp Methodist church with Mrs. Lettie Baldwin and Miss Darlene Baldwin of near Green Camp as witnesses. Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin will make their home in Cardington. Mr. Baldwin is an employe of the Scioto Ordnance Plant at Marion.

NEWS FROM OUR BOYS

Pfc. John D. Griffith, son of Mrs. Nora Griffith of 327 South Main street, and Pvt. Byron F. Jacobs of Upper Sandusky are among the men from Marion and vicinity who are taking specialized training at the Ohio State university, Columbus, according to a report from the training school.

Pvt. Floyd Detwiler, who has been stationed at Camp Atterbury, Ind., and is now on maneuvers in Tennessee, has been promoted to corporal, according to word received by Mrs. Detwiler of 769 Merkle avenue. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Detwiler of 919 Congress street.

Mrs. Robert W. Altenberger of 244 North Seffner avenue has returned from New York after visiting her husband, Pvt. R. W. Altenberger, who is stationed there with an aviation engineers battalion.

Lt. Francis E. Wixstead, son of Mrs. Grace Wixstead of west of Marion, has completed a 4-weeks course at Edgewood Arsenal, Md., and has been transferred to Camp Siebert, Ala., as chemical warfare instructor and gas unit officer, according to word received by his mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rice of 491 Patterson street have received word that their son, Pfc. Richard E. Rice has arrived in England. Before leaving this country he was stationed at the Army Air base at Richmond, Va. He has been in the service six months.

Clifford Emmet Jones, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harley E. Jones of East Fairground street, has been enrolled in a 16-weeks course for Navy machinist's mates at the Naval armory, Dearborn, Mich., according to headquarters of the ninth Naval district at Great Lakes, Ill. Selected for the training by making high grades in a series of aptitude tests taken during recruit training, he will learn to operate main and auxiliary engines on board ship and adjust, repair and overhaul engines and engine room equipment. On completion of the course he will be eligible for petty officer rating, second class, and assigned to duty with the fleet or at a shore station. He reported to the school May 20 but served one month in the guard unit before starting in classes.

Richard L. Steward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Steward of 418 Cherry street, has completed preflight and primary training and has been assigned to basic flight training at the Bainbridge Army Air Field, Bainbridge, Ga., according to the public relations office there. Cadet Steward, who entered the service Jan. 2, 1942, completed pre-flight training at Maxwell Field, Ala., and primary training at Lodwick School of Aeronautics at Lakeland, Fla. He is a graduate of Harding High school and is a former display artist for the Sears Roebuck Co. store and the Palace theater here.

Pfc. Everett E. Reeves has graduated from an air force technical school at Buckley Field, Colo. according to word received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Reeves of 1073 Davids street. He is now stationed at Elgin Field, Fla.

Pvt. Francis L. Reeder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Reeder has returned to Greenville, Pa. after spending a furlough at home.

Coxswain Bill Tanner of the U. S. Coast Guard, stationed in Jersey City, N. J., and Bud Tanner, Aviation Machinist's Mate, third class, stationed at Bronson Field, Pensacola, Fla., left last Thursday after spending furloughs with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. George C. Tanner of 1014 East Church street.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Runkle and daughter, Addaline, of North Main street have returned from a visit to Great Lakes, Ill., where they visited Harold E. Runkle, seaman second class. Mr. Runkle was operated on Saturday at the naval hospital and his condition was reported to be satisfactory when his parents returned.

Forewarned on Food

THERE [illegible] better time [illegible] now to understand the proportions of the national food problem and how to deal with it. That is the effect of the debate in Congress where spending programs by various officials charged with responsibility for food administration and the cost of living have been brought before the committee by Chester Bowles, who is one of the world's few qualified experts on the subject of food distribution.

The fact is that the Roosevelt administration has drifted right up to the edge of a genuine food crisis without any fixed program of action. At a time when shortages are imminent, it is still keeping in effect parts of a program designed to create artificial shortages. It has lacked what is traditionally war's hardest problem—belligerently and awkwardly. There is lots of room for improvement—and fortunately there still is time.

Disturbing as it will prove to be to the tenderhearted to witness the violent fighting that goes with a matter of this kind when the debate gets into the public areas, debate is the last remaining hope for improvement. The subject will have to be threshed out. Some heads will fall. A few important names may get some rough handling. Feelings will be hurt, and votes affected, perhaps adversely. But out of it all may come a food program that didn't just grow like Topsy but was hammered out on the anvil of public debate. Whatever may happen from now on, the American public at least has been forewarned that those who should know most about it think the food problem is serious.

Considering the Source

CRITICISM of John L. Lewis and other American personalities by a Soviet trade union paper, which accuses them of aiding Berlin by their actions, do not sit well with Americans. They reserve the right to do their own criticizing. This happens to be a private fight, with no outsiders allowed.

Considering the source, Americans properly resent talk about aiding Berlin. The differences of opinion that arise in this country are honest; they may be of comfort to the enemy sometimes, but that is accidental, not intentional. Mr. Lewis can fight with his own government, if he feels that way, without convicting himself of pro-Nazi leanings.

One of the most insidious habits encouraged by the doctrinaire method of judgment employed under one-party government is that of accusing everyone who is not for you of being against you. Americans, whatever else they may think about Mr. Lewis, do not think he is against his own country. He may be wrong about a lot of things, but he has the privilege of living in a country where the right to be wrong is zealously guarded.

Rationing Deadlines

THE frantic rush to buy shoes before the deadline for expiration of the No. 17 coupons is being discussed as an indication of something wrong with the rationing system, but the trouble lies deeper than that. The fault is in human nature.

To be honest, it can't even be called a fault, unless such human frailties as inability to see in the dark or jump 20 feet into the air can be called faults, too. It is a rule of behavior, like the instinct that causes horses to run back to their stalls in a burning barn.

It has cropped out in every experience with rationing deadlines so far and no doubt it will continue to do so. In Ohio, whose highly excitable and well behaved residents have been buying automobile license plates since the turn of the century, the deadline rush 43 years later still was so unwieldy that the deadline had to be postponed. If this state can't overcome human nature in almost half a century, OPA shouldn't be ashamed of making no progress in a few short months.

Westward-Bound Russia

FRAGMENTARY reports of scattered skirmishes on the Russian front can't support conclusions yet, but they do support the reasonable surmise that the Red army does not plan to retreat this summer. There are signs to the contrary, even suggesting that in the summer of 1943 Russia may be westward bound, instead.

Russian reports mention growing strength and the possibility that Germany may be driven to adoption of the strategy of positional warfare, in place of the offensive tactics that pierced the Russian front in 1941 and 1942. Air power is mentioned more frequently. The reports reflect a condition of confidence, in contrast to the non-committal communique when Germany was taking the offensive in the two previous summer campaigns.

Behind the news from the front is a significant change in information from Moscow. There has been no criticism of the Allies either for many weeks; Premier Stalin apparently is satisfied at last with the assistance Russia is receiving. While it is not too late for Germany to launch an offensive and not impossible for the offensive to be successful, the tell-tale fact is that in the last third of June the war on the eastern front favors the Allies and does not favor the Axis.

News Behind the News

Decision by Willkie To Tour Country Is Semi-Formal Announcement of Candidacy.

By PAUL MALLON

[illegible] the strategy behind the [illegible] the partner of the Red [illegible] Stalin, who established [illegible] has been welcoming the Fighting French [illegible]

[illegible] the government views Moscow [illegible] with DeGaulle's group, [illegible] further than [illegible] the Italian or we have gone. In a joint communique [illegible] Sept 26, 1942, Moscow recognized the Italian group as representing "the whole of the [illegible] and territories of France [illegible] not accept capitulation," and that only one qualified to organize the participation in the war of French citizens and territories.

The British government merely reciprocated here as representing "the French" and promised to support him. But already the Communists are having trouble with him, and Russian republications [illegible] denounce him as [illegible] from Germany.

For more important [illegible] to understand the various news items from the French political front), DeGaulle is a political individualist, who seems entirely favorable only to DeGaulle. One eminent authority here characterizes him as "the French Joan D'Arc" but no doubt he would prefer to be called Napoleon.

Popularity Declines

As these symptoms have become clear in recent developments, DeGaulle's popularity here has declined even among the liberals who espoused his cause despite his monarchist background, primarily because there was no one else.

A prominent liberal Washington correspondent of a pinkishly dazed New York newspaper wrote a series of stories on the DeGaulle situation from a truthful standpoint after his newspaper had sent him to Africa. He found the administration position was not so far wrong. When he returned, he discovered his stories had not been printed and thereupon resigned.

Apparently, the liberals are not yet ready for the truth about DeGaulle, but are getting closer to it.

Dislikes Bricker

[illegible] he, Governor Bricker of the reasons not [illegible] is not equally distasteful toward Governor Dewey of New York. This at any rate is the way official Republican leaders now understand the Willkie position and purposes.

Riding far higher than Willkie in congressional viewpoint, however are both Dewey and General MacArthur. The leaders realize [illegible] will not be a candidate, will [illegible] to be drafted, but believe this could be arranged.

The MacArthur candidacy is largely the personal creation of Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, who does not know whether MacArthur will accept, but believes the war will still be on next June, and supposes that the outstanding superior American military director naturally will be demanded.

French Politics

No American mind can understand French politicians. They can not even understand each other. After years of dealing with General DeGaulle, the allied political leaders find it hard to describe who and what he is in the current situation.

Newly circulated stories try to explain his political movement as communistic. It is true the Communists [illegible] DeGaulle group [illegible] the Free French [illegible] but already the Communists are having trouble with him, the Russian republications [illegible] denounce him as [illegible] from Germany.

For more important [illegible] to understand the various news items from the French political front), DeGaulle is a political individualist, who seems entirely favorable only to DeGaulle. One eminent authority here characterizes him as "the French Joan D'Arc" but no doubt he would prefer to be called Napoleon.

Today and Tomorrow

President Succeeding Greatly Militarily but Failing As Executive and Leader of Nation.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

HAVING gone back and forth across the continent, one general conclusion seems to me more than ever clear. It is that Mr. Roosevelt is succeeding greatly as commander in chief and is missing out seriously as chief executive and as leader of the nation.

There really can be no doubt that the American mobilization all the way from the induction centers to the war factories and the research laboratories is a prodigious achievement. Nor is there any doubt, I believe, that the country which judges by results, has confidence that the strategy of war is well conducted.

But it is no less obvious that when it comes to labor relations, to war finance and to the management of the food supply, there is no such confidence. It does not exist because, as a matter of fact, here there is muddle and indecision.

It is lamentably true that the President is neglecting to lead the nation, failing to inform the people, failing to explain, persuade and reconcile, failing to inspire the nation with a sense of the greatness of its cause and of its historic mission.

Certainly there are limits to any man's ability. In time of war the office of president is now too big for any man who occupies it. Neither Mr. Roosevelt nor any other man can possibly have the energy of mind and character to be chief of state, commander in chief, chief executive and the leader of the nation. Therefore unless he delegates some of his powers he must inevitably neglect some of his duties.

Mr. Roosevelt has thus far refused to face up to this truth. He has decided, quite recently that he cannot delegate his highest function in wartime, which is to preside as a civilian statesman over the military planning; and for this fundamental duty he has neither gifts nor a rich experience. For because he is so unwilling to delegate power and so unwilling to remove lieutenants who are incapable of exercising power if he delegated it, he is neglecting those functions which happen to today be the civilian position at home most immediately.

Won't Delegate Power

They are being neglected because he cannot perform them himself and no one else has sufficient authority to act for him. It is there is no use pretending that as yet Economic Stabilizer James F. Byrnes really has the power which the country has come to believe he would have. It is evident from Mr. Roosevelt's recent casual remarks at his press conferences that Mr. Byrnes is not in command of the treasury and of war finances.

It is no less evident that Food Administrator Chester Davis has not been given the power he needs to do his job, nor given that status in the business community of the nation which the War Food Administration should and must have.

It is also clear that in the field of labor relations Mr. Roosevelt is using the tag end of a preoccupied mind, the tag ends of his excessively busy days, to kiss along, to baby along, to muddle through somehow with, a great and portentous problem.

And so, while the country sees a consistent policy and well matured plans for conducting the war, the home front is all incident, accident and improvisation.

The hysterics of the lower house of Congress are a reflection of the indiscipline and incoherence of the administration. In the absence of a well conceived and thoroughly explained policy on food supply and on labor relations, there is a vacuum into which the irresponsibles and the uninformed in Congress have rushed. There is no use complaining. If Congress were all saints and sages, it could not formulate a constructive policy. Only those who must administer the policy can formulate one.

Food in Muddle

Food will be an angry muddle as long as the President, absorbed by the war, cannot see that the man responsible for the production of food must control prices and the distribution and rationing of food—as long as he cannot see that the established food processors and distributors must be nominated the government's agents in handling the food problem—as long as he does not see that the nation's food supply must be organized before its supplies can be used advantageously. Until the policy is clarified Congress will rattle around dangerously, for the road to wisdom at the Capitol begins at the corner of Pennsylvania avenue. [illegible] as could and should be delegated to Byrnes and his associates.

[illegible] is one function of the President, and indeed of the commander-in-chief, which cannot be delegated and must not be neglected. He cannot rely upon OWI or upon the newspaper press to explain to men in the armed forces and the people at home regularly informed about the course of the war. No one can do this for him.

A nation at war with its sons fighting all over the world, cannot rely on communiques, presidential inspection of press conferences and the reports of correspondents. It must hear the story, chapter by chapter, and as a whole and in its grand perspective from the commander-in-chief himself.

All the other problems are soluble only if the President regularly goes to the trouble of taking the nation into his confidence, speaking as only he can speak from the high place where all the separate parts form a pattern, all the incidents are elements of the same historic drama: where the war and the peace to follow can be seen steadily and whole.

"UP THE CREEK WITHOUT A PADDLE"

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Thursday, June 22, 1933.

A New York jury acquitted Charles E. Mitchell, former chairman of the National City bank of New York at the end of a trial in which he was charged with cheating the government of more than $850,000 in income taxes.

Will Rogers in his daily news dispatch wrote, "Did you read this in the paper? There are 800 people (get that—800) work in the library of congress. Didn't know there was anybody there but a watchman. Way, that's a librarian to each book. Well, the Democrats have found that there is only 40 of these that are Democrats. The total salary in there is $773,360, so the Democrats figure about $750,000 of this is a total waste to the country, unless they can get Democrats in there to help read the books for the congressmen."

Bonnie Brown of South Vine street and Jean Howard of Summit street were in Brinkhaven, O., to spend two weeks at Camp Nelson Dodd.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Nickison of North State street.

While one of their number guarded Miss Minta Davis, 20, clerk in a LaRue grocery, three gypsy women robbed the cash register of $9.

Issuance of $40,000 in bonds to finance construction of a covered reservoir as a municipal water plant improvement was authorized by Crestline council.

Mrs. Jay H. Vaughan of Pleasant Acres gave a tea for the pleasure of her daughter, Mrs. Paul Brobst whose marriage had been announced recently.

The annual encampment of the G. A. R. closed at Newark with Frances S. Layton of Marion named as delegate-at-large to represent the Ohio department at the national convention in St. Paul, Minn., and the election of Mrs. D. E. Montgomery of South Vine street as department president of the National Alliance, Daughters of Union Veterans.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

It was Friday, June 22, 1923.

President Harding arrived in Kansas City for the second speaking stop on his western journey and received a tumultuous welcome from crowds that filled the streets. He had given his first speech of the tour at St. Louis the preceding night.

Eruption of Mt. Etna, which began the preceding Sunday, had died down. It was estimated property damage would amount to $10,000,000.

A two-day campaign for sale of forget-me-nots was started here by the Girl Scouts to raise money to provide club quarters for disabled veterans of the World war.

The thirty-third annual convention of the Ohio branch of the Woman's Missionary Society opened at Calvary Evangelical church.

Dr. A. E. Mann of Findlay, brother of Dr. F. B. Mann, Miss Zella Mann and Walter Mann of Marion, was installed as grand master of the Ohio I. O. O. F. at its meeting in Middletown.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Shepherd of Montgomery township.

Hero Debunked

NOWATA, OKLA.—Bill Estlin's wife routed him out of bed to make sure a prowler really had left the premises. Sleepily, he began looking behind doors and dark corners, and then, into a closet. A moment later sounds of combat brought Mrs. Estlin running to the scene. "I've got the so-and-so," yelled Estlin. "Turn on the lights." Mrs. Estlin complied, then doubled up with laughter. Her husband was locked in combat with a dressmaker's dummy a daughter had placed in the closet.

The WAACS Are Lagging

Auxiliary Formed Year Ago Not Up to Expectations.

By JACK STINNETT.

WASHINGTON—The "step-sisters" of the Army are a year old this month and in spite of their phenomenal record, their treatment at the hands of the Army still is a great disappointment to those who have backed them from the start.

The Women's Army Auxiliary Corps was first established in May, 1942, with a set limit of 25,000. They were not to be members of the regular Army, subject to benefits, actual Army ratings, overseas service, etc., which applied to the men in training.

Within a few months, the value of the service was so apparent that the legal limit was raised six-fold to 150,000. After nearly 11 months, less than half of that quota (or only 60,000 WAAC officers and noncommissioned personnel) are in training or in service.

Mere infants compared to the WAACs are the WAVES, SPARS and the Women's Marine Corps Auxiliary, yet these services already have enlisted a far greater percentage of the total male personnel than the Army. The women in the naval services, however, have the same ranks, pay, benefits, and spheres of action that the men in their respective services have.

Where the fault in the WAAC situation lies is hard to say. On file at Army headquarters here are more than half a million requests for WAACs to supplement and supplant the Army's manpower. An Army officer returned from overseas told me recently that overseas generals have requested assignment of nearly 20,000 women to overseas divisions—nearly one-third of the total now in service or in training—yet only a few so far have been assigned outside the borders of the continental United States.

WAACs are being given training which would equip them for service in combat areas, although not, of course, as combat troops. They are being taught the use of small arms, machine guns, anti-aircraft guns and how to protect themselves in personal combat by jiu-jitsu.

Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers, of Massachusetts, who sponsored the first WAAC bill, has another coming up soon to make the girls full-fledged members of the Army, with all the rights and appurtenances thereto. But I doubt if that will help the situation much.

I can't speak for the young women all over the country who are financially and physically fit for the services, but I have talked to some here. There is a general apathy—the turning of a pretty jaundiced eye—on the women's uniformed services.

They are supposed, they say, to rush out and enlist in jobs that don't pay them half of what they are getting in private or war plant employment, to sacrifice their freedom for military discipline—and for what? Mostly to be the subject of a lot of dumb jokes and much down-the-nose sniffing from the men in uniform. Besides, aside from a few favored WAVEs, an infinitesimal number of WAACs and the Army nurses, where is all that romance, excitement, etc., of foreign service?

A good many Washington military observers are convinced the women in uniform won't amount to much until the Army wakes up and drafts enough to supply the demand.

Uniformity

Clothes Don't Make the Man—Wrong Ones Can Give Him a Lot of Extra Complications.

By DAMON RUNYON

I CAN remember when I wore pants narrow around the knees. I could get them off without first removing my shoes. That was not so long ago either. In the mad 20's and those pants were the style of the all-American class New York boys, the "in men" of that era wore pants.

The narrow-at-the-ankles cut was the style in pants at that time. A man who wore pants he could pull over his shoes was considered smart in those days and would be soon admitted to the better speakeasies.

I wish I had the space to tell you a harrowing experience of a friend of mine in those narrow-at-the-ankles pants. He got up too close to an open fireplace and got his pants caught fire. Naturally, he immediately dropped his suspenders to get the pants out before they would not come off his shoes, and as the fire gathered, he did not have time to divest himself of shoes.

So he ran downstairs out of the apartment to Billy Lahiff's tavern, where he was living at the time, and imbibed internally at the bar. Then he went out into 46th street with his blazing pants around his shoes and a good Samaritan in front of the old Friars' Club got a pail of water and extinguished the flames. He suffered bad burns and besides had his pride hurt by the merriment of some citizens who said they always knew he was an exhibitionist. He never afterward wore anything but a full Hubbard so he would not again be caught unprepared by fire.

I AM telling you about these narrow pants to show you there is nothing new under the sun. Pants cut pretty much in that manner are part of the zoot suit ensemble in Los Angeles that was one of the reasons for the recent uproar between young zoot suiters and servicemen. Writers describing the affair always accentuate the fact that the pants had to be removed without first taking off the shoes.

I note there is a movement on foot to ban the zoot suit in Los Angeles, but I am not sure that you can dictate to anyone what he shall not wear. I doubt that the supreme court would uphold any sartorial taboo if the matter ever got there as a legal proposition.

This is not saying that I favor the zoot suit as such. I have no objection to it, since it may be worn as a sort of uniform of hoboism. It seems to me that a youngster who insists in wearing a zoot suit in Los Angeles under present conditions is slightly silly, that does not necessarily follow that he is a bum. I think he is like the bull that stood in the middle of the railroad track to meet an express head-on. You may admire his courage but question his judgment.

WE have always been a great people for developing prejudice against anything unconventional in garb. The hats and other items of wear of members of religious sects of one kind and another used to be eyed with amusement by many of our citizens. The cow-puncher range attire is the object of amused glances in the city, and the city fellow in Bermuda raiment is a joke in the open spaces.

The prejudice is particularly strong with kids. Some of my older readers will probably recall the hazards undergone in the form of neighborhoods by the adult wearer of a derby hat or of the youngsters in an Eton collar. The old time Chinese laundrymen in the United States garments of their native land and with their pigtails were once popular targets of persecutions among our youth, but as soon as they shed the tails and began to look Americanized ature the persecutions were largely abandoned.

Clothes may not make the man, but in the United States they can sometimes save a lot of annoyances.

Vanished Middle Age

By SPOON RIVER SAM
Associated Press Features

I can remember when middle age was looked on as a comfortable and respectable time of life, but have you noticed—you don't see many middle aged folks anymore nowadays? Can't figure out what's happened to 'em. 'Course the youngsters are in uniforms, but it seems like the real young ones and the real old people are running things on the home front.

As for the kids, it's got so a mother hates to let her young go to the corner store for candy, which they probably ain't got nohow, less some baseball team or railroad line sign 'em up.

And as for the old men, some that's in wheelchairs for 20 years are back on the job like a business man told me the other day called for a messenger and was told the messenger boy was on the other side of town today, and wasn't expected back till Thursday.

How old is this boy anyway, the guy asks. Well, they tell him, he saw service in the Spanish-American War and he's got a grandson that's just come through the battle of the zoot suits out on the coast. Yes sir, he may not get around much, but he is trying.

But as I say, as for the folks in middle age, it seems like they've just disappeared. I guess that we're living so fast we don't stay around long enough through that period to notice it.

Reckon the best attitude for us all is to just keep on looking forward to the days of middle age, even if we passed it years ago.

MRS. M. I. RUPP DIES OF HEART ATTACK

Found Dead in Rear of Home on East Mark Street.

Mrs. Margaret I. Rupp, 63, was found dead in the yard of her home at 552 East Mark street [illegible] yesterday, was the victim of a heart attack, Dr. R. [illegible] Marion county coroner, declared today.

Mrs. Rupp was found, the coroner indicated, about six hours after suffering the heart attack apparently while pumping water from a well near the house. She had fallen, striking her nose and mouth [illegible] as she fell, and neighbor boys, Tommy and Freddie Hatem, to whom she often had given flowers, [illegible] invited to play in her yard, discovered her body when they came to visit her there.

The boys' mother, Mrs. Orville Hatem of 552 East Mark street, [illegible] they told of finding the body, called a neighbor, Mrs. [illegible] Hegg of 577 East Mark street, who in turn notified police.

Mrs. Rupp had not been well for some time but had not consulted a physician about her illness. She was living alone.

Born Oct. 23, 1879 in Pleasant township, she was a daughter of [illegible] and Katherine Snyder Supinger, natives of Marion county. On Dec. 23, 1898 she was married to [illegible] W. Rupp who died Oct. [illegible]. She was a resident of Marion 37 years, coming here from Pleasant township.

Surviving are three sisters, Mrs. Bert Powell of 120 East [illegible] street; Miss Lucy Supper of [illegible] Heffner avenue and Mrs. [illegible] Burke of North Prospect [illegible].

Funeral services will be conducted tomorrow at 4 p. m. in the Schaffner-Denzer funeral home, East Center street by Rev. D. N. Kelly of Wesley Methodist church. Burial will be made in Pleasant cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home after [illegible] tonight.

Labor Troubles and Riots Delight Leaders of Axis

While DeWitt Mackenzie is on vacation, this daily column is being written by Max Hill, Far East chief of The Associated Press bureau in Tokyo.

By MAX HILL

Our problems at home—accented recently by work stoppages and riots—are the best propaganda the axis has to use against us.

They are doing their battles with our troops. Neither the Germans nor the Japanese have victories with which to bolster home morale.

But through our troubles at home their adroit propagandists are able to encourage the rank and file to ever more desperate efforts.

It is unfortunate that we continue to feed them ready-made criticism because in the long run the cost is going to be in American lives and materials.

Just prior to the war, a minor strike or disturbance in America was worth between one and two columns of copy in a Tokyo newspaper. The basic theme was that we were divided; that we could not work as a unit. The situation has not changed.

Jap Strength at Home

Japan's greatest strength is at home. Her people have been taught that they must cooperate willingly—that the life of the individual is as nothing compared with the state and emperor.

Not many months before the war, preparations were being made in Tokyo for air raid shelters. The program was dropped. It was decided that every man, woman and child in Tokyo's 7,000,000 inhabitants should stay above ground and fight fires should there be a raid.

This is the sort of philosophy we are combatting. The war itself against such determined peoples is difficult enough without a divided home front.

Russia's Role

It cannot be that Russia does not know the plans of her allies, Great Britain and the United States.

Therefore, the special communique broadcast from Moscow must be considered as a trump card in the propaganda campaign which the United Nations now are waging so successfully against the Germans.

She asks for a second front, "without which victory is impossible."

Hitler was right so many times in his strategy it must have seemed to him that he could not be wrong. But his miscalculation of Russia's strength has sapped the life blood of Germany to a point that it has become our margin of eventual victory.

The war in Russia would seem to be now in a sort of stalemate; but two long and difficult years have passed since Hitler announced his determination to crush the Russians, perhaps in six weeks.

If Russia had not had her magnificent and undisclosed strength, the world most likely would now be at the mercy of Hitler, Tojo and Mussolini.

Her contribution is so great that she is more than justified in her present appeal for a second front in Europe. Russia's losses have been severe, but they have not weakened her as much as those suffered by Nazi Germany.

German Casualties

The Russian figures, as announced in the special communique, show that German dead, wounded and captured total 6,400,000 men. And in addition, the Germans have used or lost huge quantities of war materials which they otherwise would be using against America.

Both President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull of the state department used the occasion to give unstinted praise to the Russians. The President's message to Premier Josef Stalin had the note of confidence which has become increasingly evident in recent weeks among leaders of the United Nations. He said:

"The growing might of the combined forces of all the United Nations  testifies to the spirit of unity and sacrifice necessary for our ultimate victory."

It is essential for the welfare of all concerned that we give the Russians the utmost in cooperation and aid.

15 Girls Enroll In Home Nursing Class

Fifteen high school girls attended the first class of a six week's course in home nursing this morning in the home nursing room at the Red Cross office. Mrs. H. J. Klinefelter is instructor of the class.

The class, sponsored by the Girl Scout council for girls wishing to pass their home nursing merit badge, is open to any girl of high school age. The course is being given in two hour periods beginning at 9:30 every Tuesday and Friday morning. It is a regular Red Cross course.

There is room for more girls in the class. Girls may register for the course at the Girl Scout office in the Citizen's building between 9 a. m. and 5 p. m. tomorrow or Thursday.

CLEVELAND MEAT DEALERS MAY CLOSE

Vote To Suspend Business Unless Supply Increases.

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, June 22—Members of the Cleveland Retail Meat Dealers association have voted to suspend business in the near future unless a greater quantity of meat—especially beef—is made available for sale, the association's secretary-manager George H. Bubel said today.

"Our meat dealers are just about at the end of their string," Bubel declared. "The consumer has points and money, but we have no meat. And the loss of business volume has driven the percentage of overhead costs, which are constant, away up. There is no point in operating a nonprofitable business."

Bubel announced the association, composed of proprietors of more than 650 retail meat stores, would hold a special meeting in 10 days to review developments. He asserted packers were not slaughtering up to their allowable quotas of cattle because of losses incurred in such slaughter.

"If the government doesn't want to put a ceiling on livestock prices at the farm level it ought to pay the producer a subsidy to cover their losses," the association officer contended.

Some Cleveland packers have discontinued beef killing and all have curtailed operations, reported A. Z. Baker, president of the Cleveland Union Stockyards.

Earl C. Gibbs, president of Earl C. Gibbs, Inc., livestock slaughter firm, said "fifty per cent of the meat in the Cleveland market is black market meat in one way or another." "The rules which OPA has set up to fight the black market are O. K., but OPA has never bothered to enforce its own rules."

U. S. RAIDERS

Cologne in the first 1,000-bomber raid in history.

June 25, 1942—52 lost over Bremen.

Two weeks ago, 43 bombers of "the greatest attacking force yet sent over Germany," all four-engined planes, failed to return from raids on Duesseldorf and Muenster.

DNB, the German news agency, admitted that "numerous blocks of buildings" at Krefeld were laid in ruins.

Krefeld, 20 miles northwest of ruined Duesseldorf, is a center of heavy steel industries, coal mines and chemical works.

On Europe's southern ramparts, allied warplanes significantly turned the full violence of their attack from Sicily and Sardinia to Italy itself, blasting the port of Naples and at least five other Italian mainland cities in day and night raids.

These included Salerno, Battipaglia, Cancello, Reggio Calabria and San Giovanni.

Naples Heavily Hit

A bulletin from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters said U. S. Flying Fortresses inflicted havoc on rail yards and industrial targets at Naples yesterday "and bombs were seen to burst on the arsenal."

Night-flying RAF Wellingtons from North Africa had also attacked Naples a few hours earlier.

In addition to the six Italian mainland cities listed by the allied command, Italian headquarters said the raiders bombed Annunziata, south of Naples.

A Fascist communique reported 10 persons killed and 72 injured at Naples, one dead and eight injured at Annunziata, 14 dead and 45 injured at Salerno, and 15 dead and 70 injured at Battipaglia—a total of 40 killed, 195 injured.

At the same time, the Cairo command announced that American heavy bombers from the middle east smashed at important military targets on the toe of the Italian boot in daylight yesterday and shot down 20 of 40 axis fighters attempting to intercept them. All the U. S. planes returned safely.

RAF heavyweights hammered the same region Sunday night, setting big fires, while long-range allied fighters, continuing to hunt down enemy shipping in the Aegean, attacked four vessels off the west coast of Greece.

A British air ministry communique described the overnight raid of Krefeld as "very heavy and concentrated"—delivered "in great strength" — and indicated that it approached the 1,000-bomber class.

The toll of 44 bombers was the highest yet suffered by the RAF in any single attack this year.

RAF night intruders also strafed rail targets and airfields

KNOX SAYS INVASION PLANS PROGRESSING

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 22—Navy Secretary Knox said today that preparations are moving "right along" for an allied invasion of Europe.

Knox was asked at a press conference for comment on a new Russian insistence that an allied army be thrown onto the German dominated continent. The Russians said that while the German army has been defeated several times during the past year and while the military situation is now generally favorable to the allies there can be no victory without a second front.

Knox said he would make "no comment at all" on the subject of a "second front," a term that he has repeatedly avoided using. However, he said that preparations for an attack on Europe "are going forward right along."

"Obviously, we can't talk in specific terms," the Navy Secretary added, "but there has been no cessation of these activities."

Knox holds and frequently has expressed the idea there are many fronts in the war today and it is erroneous to call a prospective front in Europe a "second front."

In response to other questions, Knox said he knew of no Japanese interference with the movement of supplies from the United States to Russia across the Pacific.

FARM FUND BILL STILL IN DISPUTE

House To Vote on Changes Made by Senate.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 22—The storm-laden $875,000,000 farm appropriations bill went back to the house today with five major items, including senate allowances of $160,000,000 for the farm security administration still in sharp dispute.

Despite failure to agree on this as well as on a senate amendment increasing soil conservation payments from $500,000,000 to $600,000,000 senate and house conferees closed unanimously all prospects for an early accord on the bill.

They based their hopes on the fact that in three meetings they composed differences on nearly 129 of 134 amendments added by the senate to the $715,000,000 in appropriations previously approved by the house.

Meetings will be resumed after presentation of the first conference report of the two houses.

Besides FSA and soil conservation payments, still in dispute were senate allowances of $7,000,000 to continue administration of insurance on wheat and cotton crops; increasing rural electrification administration loans from $20,000,000 to $30,000,000 and authorizing the agriculture department to continue parity payments on 1943 and 1944 crops.

RIOTING

upon Gov. Harry F. Kelly's request as rioting swelled to new peaks late last night with both mob fights and individual battles so numerous that police were virtually helpless.

Two Fatally Shot

Two Negroes met death from police guns in a battle at an apartment hotel where, police said, Negro snipers were firing from upper windows. In that fight, Patrolman Lawrence Adams was wounded in the groin.

Time and again fights broke out in the Hastings Street district, a section of the city near downtown.

In the nearly 24 hours of almost constant fighting, automobiles were upset and set afire, stores were pillaged, and windows wantonly smashed. One brickbat killed a Negro woman.

Loot was extensive and many arrests were made for theft. In the hospitals nurses and doctors were hard-pressed to care for the injured.

Early last night Gov. Kelly, declaring a state of emergency, ordered a 10 p. m. curfew, banned the sale of alcoholic beverages, directed that amusement places close up at 9 p. m "until further orders."

Curfew Order Ignored

The governor's order covered the area known as "metropolitan Detroit" with more than 2,000,000 inhabitants.

Rioters ignored the curfew order. Fights continued. Then came the governor's request for troops and on their appearance rioting subsided almost immediately.

Climaxing three years of unrest between Negro and white residents, the rioting began about midnight Sunday. A fight on the bridge over the Detroit river to famous Belle Isle, amusement spot, spread ultimately into a bedlam.

There had been previous flare-ups in this smouldering situation, aggravated in recent months by housing shortages and heavy influx of war workers from other sections of the country.

Marion state police believe that the Clark machine was stolen by the same thief or thieves who took a Bellefontaine car Saturday night. This car was left by the culprits early Sunday morning at a spot near Five Points.

MARIONITE FINDS OSGOOD SHOVEL IN PACIFIC ZONE

Like Meeting Old Friend, Walter Haberman Writes.

Happening on a Marion-made piece of equipment in the Pacific war area was like meeting up with an old friend for Walter Haberman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Haberman of 445 Delaware avenue, recently. In a letter received by his parents Pfc. Haberman said he was doing some construction work and had taken a truck and gone "in the bushes" for a load of gravel. To his surprise, he wrote, he saw a steam shovel made by the Osgood Co., in operation.

He went over to talk to the operators who told him the equipment had been at Pearl Harbor and Midway before being taken on the present job. He was told the operators call the shovel "old faithful" as it has never yet failed to start or operate on any job it has been on. "Marion people can be proud to know that one of their products is helping to beat the Japs," he said. Pfc. Haberman has been with the armed forces in the war area for 13 months.

Bucyrus-Owned Trotter In Little Grand Circuit Win

Hava Hanover Is Winner of Classified Trot.

By LOREN W. TIBBALS
Marion Star Sports Editor

In one of the best performances of the Little Grand Circuit meeting here Tuesday, Hava Hanover, a three-year-old owned by Walter J. Michael of Bucyrus, stepped a mile over the fast ground track last night.

Although not an eligible Hambletonian candidate, the Bucyrus-owned colt soundly defeated Cleo A. Young's Dictator Hanover, likely starter in the 1943 running of the classic, and trimmed six other starters decisively.

Breeding records of the classy colt show that its dam and granddam were both winners of the rich Hambletonian. The dam, Shirley Hanover, raced the second best mile in the history of the classic in winning the 1937 edition. The granddam, Hanover's Bertha, won the 1930 running of the famous Goshen trotting stake.

Bought for $750

Michael, president of a Bucyrus war plant awarded the coveted Army-Navy "E" several months ago, and a member of the state racing commission, bought the Hambletonian offspring as a yearling at the Harrisburg sales in the fall of 1941, paying $750. Last year as a two-year-old the colt won eight out of 11 starts. Last night's race was his first start of the new season.

The horse up until this year was eligible to run in the eighteenth revival of the Hambletonian which is scheduled for Aug. 11 at the Goshen, N. Y., mile track. Shortly before a $200 payment was to have been made earlier this year the Bucyrus-owned stepper showed up lame. In the tune-up scores preceding last night's race the horse still appeared to be slightly lame but these faint traces could not be seen in either of the two heats which the speedster won.

Owner Michael withdrew him from the third and final heat to avoid overworking the young hustler.

Wayne "Curley" Smart of Ostrander, who drives horses owned by Joe Neville of Delaware and Mr. Michael, was the pilot in both of the victorious heats. Last year Smart was the nation's second leading driver, scoring 81 wins as compared to 82 for Houston Stone.

Scores First Win

Steve Benefield, wise Denver, Colo., pilot, scored his first race victory of the current meeting in booting Cresllawn Mc, owned by Nelson Lindblad of Denver, to victory in the first two heats of the opening classified trot. Benefield nose out Jakie Mahoney and Betty Worthy, owned by Saunders Mills, Inc. of Toledo, to win the first heat. In the next the Colorado horse was pushed to the limit by Poplin, owned by Mirl Brooks of Fremont and driven by Pat Dailey, veteran Fremont driver, Dailey reversed the second heat results in winning third, nosing out Benefield over the nine-sixteenths of a mile course.

Lady Royal, driven by Harry Short of Washington C. H. and owned by John Kelly of Bangor, Me., won last night's only other event—the 2.26 class pace. Lady Royal, one of the pre-race favorites, won the opening heat, finished third in the second and ended second in the final dash. Winner of the second heat and the longest shot of the evening was P. J. Volo, owned by Mike Sparolls of Toledo and guided by Reeves. Holders of $2 parimutuel tickets on P. J. Volo to win were refunded $41.80. Winner of the final heat was Athlone Hall, a previous heat winner here. Owned by Cleo A. Young of Timmonsville, S. C., Athlone Hall was piloted by Carl Harchell. A photo finish was required to settle the outcome of this heat.

Hugh Bell, Marion pilot who is waging a hotly-contested duel with Gabe Cartmal of Hanover for top driving honors in the Marion meeting, failed to increase his total of 11 heat victories although he drove in two three-heat races last night. Driving Rosa Castleton in the 2.26 class pace, Bell finished 2-2-1 and with Crusing in the first classified trot he ended 6-4-2.

Quinella Worth $111

Last night's daily double on Hava Hanover in the second race and Lady Royal in the third paid $62.40. The quinella on P. J. Volo and Rosa Castleton in the seventh paid $111.

GIANTS UNVEIL CHASE BUT DODGERS WHAM HIM BY SCORE OF 7-1

New York Team Continues To Get Bad Breaks in Trades; Reds Lose to Cards.

By The Associated Press

The New York Giants not only talked and made talk on the playing field this season, they merely had angling resemblance a good break on their trades.

Early in the season they obtained Ernie Lombardi, the National League batting champion, giving up a rookie catcher and outfielder Connie Ryan. Lombardi has been just ordinary for the Giants while Ryan has sparked for the Braves.

More recently the Giants gave Hershel Barna, a sometime slugging outfielder to the Boston Red Sox for Lefty Kendall Chase, a pitcher with considerable American league experience.

Barna, who had been a lackluster performer for the Giants entered the Red Sox lineup immediately and began clouting extra-base hits.

The Giants were criticized for taking Chase, who had not won a game this season. But they bided their time and waited for the proper spot to unveil a southpaw. This occasion came yesterday in a twilight game against the Brooklyn Dodgers.

For five innings he shutout the Dodgers on one hit while his teammates gave him a 1-0 advantage over Bobo Newsom. But in the sixth the Dodgers tied the score and in the seventh they chased Chase with six runs on five hits and captured a 7-1 decision.

The game had to be called at the end of the eighth because of darkness.

In the only other game on the major league program the St. Louis Cardinals maintained their 2½ game edge over the Dodgers by taking a 6-2 verdict at Cincinnati in a game that was halted by weather conditions at the end of seven innings.

SNATCHES OF SPORTS

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 22—Sketch of a swell guy: . . . Greg Rice lay on a rubbing table in a steamy-hot dressing room. He had just taken the licking of his life in a race with Sweden's Gunder Haegg and his string of victories had been snapped at 65. . . . What's more he was sick. Under the conditions, you'd think a fellow had a right to be a bit peeved at everything. . . . But Rice managed to display a big grin all the time and when the reporters crowded around, he'd sit up painfully, shake hands and say "thanks" and you knew both the grin and the thanks were genuine. . . .

In another corner of the room, one of Rice's superior officers was trying to explain the attitude of the Maritime service toward his running. . . . "He'll perform his regular duties and won't have much time to train," the officer said, "so I doubt if he'll run against Haegg again.

Quote, Unquote—Last word by Haegg (as relayed by an interpreter). "He says he likes to sit around and talk with newspapermen as much as anybody but he doesn't think it's a good idea when he's in training" . . . It can be a bad idea at other times, too.

Today's Guest Star—James E. Wray, St. Louis Post-Dispatch: "President Will Harridge is wondering why Saturday baseball crowds have dwindled away to week-day proportions. . . . The answer couldn't be the bargain Sunday doubleheader, could it, Bill? . . . If you offered to sell two sirloin steaks on Sunday for the price of one on Saturday, you couldn't expect a crush at the meat counter on Saturday."

REDS DEFEATED AS THEY OPEN 3-GAME SERIES WITH CARDS

McKechnie Calls Strategy Board To Figure Out Some Way To Stop Champs.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, June 22 — His team taking a day of rest, Manager Bill McKechnie of the Cincinnati Reds called the board of strategy together today to plan a means of using his weakened ball team victoriously against the St. Louis Cardinals in the two remaining games of the Reds—Cards series.

With Lonnie Frey on the sidelines because of an injured leg, the Reds are weakened considerably at the plate.

The champs, who walked off with the evening's honors, 6 to 2, after weather conditions discomforted the 16,197 fans in the eighth inning, did all the damage in the sixth when they scored four times on four hits.

Up to then the score was tied at two-all, the Reds getting single tallies in the second and third.

Whitey Kurowski led off the sixth with a single but it hit Williams' leg and bounced into the bull pen and Kurowski pulled up at third only to score on Sander's long fly. An infield single by Marty Marion and a safe bunt by Pitcher Howie Krist was followed by Low Klein's double, scoring Marion. Krist, who went to third on Klein's smash, came racing home on a fly ball. Stan Musial lashed out a triple to send Klein across the plate.

TOLEDO OVERCOMES LOUISVILLE, 6 TO 2

Three Homers Do the Job; Columbus Loses Again.

By The Associated Press

The Toledo Mudhens, who have won only two of their last nine starts and have slid from the first division to sixth place in the American association, had their "awakening" last night, checking out three home runs to defeat Louisville, 6-2.

Nick Gregory smashed a circuit bow in the fourth inning with bases empty and repeated in the sixth with two men aboard. No one was on base when Al Zarilla Laos connected for a homer in the seventh. But the three four-baggers accounted for five runs and came at the expense of Pitcher Mel Deutsch, who was followed by Jim Wilson and Vic Johnson. Toledo hacked away at the trio for a total of 11 hits.

Indianapolis beat Columbus 7 to 6 for its 27th victory in 40 games, and boosted its percentage to .675 for a 2½ game lead over second-place Milwaukee.

Earl Reid, who has dropped two one-run decisions to the Red Birds this season, stuck around long enough to get the victory, but he needed help from Johnny Hutchings in the last inning. He went to Reid's aid after Columbus filled the bases on two walks and an error. Chet Zyecrek's single brought in a pair of runs, but Hutchings quelled the uprising and Columbus suffered its 12th loss in 20 games.

St. Paul's game at Milwaukee and Minneapolis' contest at Kansas City were postponed.

National Professional Grid League Has Growing Pains

Pro Football Expected To Become Nationwide Sport After War; Ameche's Request Helps Spread It.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 22—Officials of the National Football league, at the conclusion of a two-day meeting here today, announced the appointment of a committee to study the future of the league and to report its findings at the annual meeting next year.

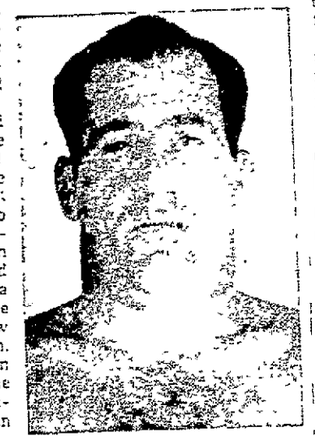
Officials said after the war pro football may no longer be a sectional sport but may expand to such prospective great far western cities never before regarded as out-of-reach for the game on their doorsteps.

This new frontier will be realized if the league, at its next session in Detroit, agrees to accept Don Ameche's franchise for Los Angeles. There also is a bid to obtain a franchise for San Francisco.

With Boston already in line for next year, and with the Cleveland Rams returning after the season when the new Philadelphia-Pittsburgh combine will separate, the league will have 11 members, six in its eastern division and five in the west. The need for another western club is seen for balance, and Los Angeles is the likely newcomer.

This would mean teams would shuttle back and forth across the west, passing through such cities as Kansas City, Denver and Salt Lake City to reach the final destination. It is possible that these cities may eventually support teams in the league.

The last bit of business yesterday was the adoption of a round-robin 40-game schedule for the eight teams operating in 1943.



HERE THURSDAY. Pictured above is Joe Perona of Boston who will meet Gil La Cross of Toledo in the one hour semi-final on Thursday night's wrestling card at the Armory. The main go will match the Purple Phantom, wrestling's man of mystery, and Rufus Jones, the colored New York hot-shot. This main feature will be a two hour event. The 30-minute preliminary will be between Buddy Knox, one of Toledo's top drawing performers, and Fred Carone, well known to Marion fans as an aggressive heavie.

Indians Ready To Take on Tigers Tonight

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, June 22 — The Cleveland Indians play a twilight contest tonight with the the Detroit Tigers the club they manhandled in a double header last Thursday in beginning a rise from seventh to third place in the league standings.

Spectacled Jack Salveson, winner of four games and loser of only one, hurls for the tribe in the opener of a four-game series. Southpaw Hal Newhouser is his opponent.

The Redskins stepped out of the league competition yesterday, and were trimmed 2 to 1 by the Great Lakes Bluejackets. The Sailors produced the winning run in the ninth inning to record their 18th victory in 21 games and their fourth triumph over a major league team.

The Bluejackets pounded Joe Heving and Allie Reynolds for 12 hits, while the Indians made five, including a triple by Manager Lou Boudreau.

Big Names of Three-State Tennis Tourney in Action

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, June 22—The "big names" in the forty-second annual tri-state tennis tournament go into action today including two national champions.

Seymour Greenberg of Chicago, who Sunday won the national clay courts title from Cincinnati's Billy Talbert, is scheduled to make two appearances—provided, of course, he gets past his first opponent.

Greenberg, on leave of absence from the enlisted reserve corps of the Army air forces, is one of the few to capture the national clay courts title twice in a row.

Attractive Pauline Betz, Los Angeles "strawberry blonde," who holds the national women's title, is billed for two matches.

Phillip Klein, of Mariemont, was the first player to enter the quarter finals when he defeated "Chunk" Helvie, former professional football player, 6-2, 6-3.

not we would today be dictating the global strategy."

Davies said his recent trip to the Soviet Union to deliver a letter from President Roosevelt to Marshal Stalin convinced him Germany would fail to achieve victory over Russia this year.

Cautioning that to carp at Russia only helps the axis, Davies called for a "constructive effort to create a public opinion at this critical time, when both the war and the peace are in jeopardy, which would fortify our confidence in our allies and their confidence in us."

Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the war manpower commission, said in an address prepared for delivery that "when we are perfectly sure that every last alternative—as measured by the stern priorities of war—has been exhausted, then, and only then," will fathers be drafted. The address was read by Robert C. Goodwin, regional manpower director.

The exact date for calling fathers can not be established definitely now because the needs of industry and the military are variable, he asserted.

"When there are not any more single men to be had who can properly be spared from vital occupations fathers will of course be taken."

Given Gasoline Warning

Mid western governors were warned to expect further gasoline restrictions in their states.

Petroleum Administrator Ickes, in an address written for the conference, said as the flow of oil into the eastern seaboard area increases further gasoline restrictions will become likely in the midwest.

General Marshall declared daylight precision bombing "has had a tremendous effect on the air operations of the German army."

"The fact of the matter is, the Germans must check this precision bombing and they have assembled their best pilots in large numbers in an endeavor to halt these staggering blows at vital installations, delivered with constantly increasing frequency and mass."

The general said that since Tunisia's success "the pattern for victory is clear."

He told the governors there are "two things we must guard against: There must be no divisions among the allies; there must be no let up in our preparations."

RUSSIANS RENEW SECOND FRONT PLEA

By The Associated Press

LONDON, June 22—Germany, shocked by recent reverses, is facing a military and political crisis, but the allies must open a second front in Europe this year if they hope for a quick victory, the Russians declared today on the second anniversary of Hitler's invasion of the Soviet Union.

In a special communique broadcast by the Moscow radio, the Soviet information bureau said:

"During the past year the German army has had no military successes. On the contrary, it has suffered one defeat after another on the Soviet front and in North Africa. Thus, as a result, the German military power has been shaken and a crisis caused.

"But this is not enough for victory, everything now depends on how the allies will use the favorable situation for a second front, without which victory is impossible."

Reviewing the two years of the bloodiest struggle in history, the broadcast placed Germany's Russian front casualties at 8,700,000 killed and missing and Russian losses at 4,200,000 in dead and missing.

Unions Support Drive for Cigarets for Troops

At a recent meeting of the Marion Industrial Union Council affiliated with the C. I. O. Local Unions, it was reported that all local unions are supporting the drive for cigarets for the men in the armed forces overseas. Those who have already contributed are: Local Union, No. 2721, United Steelworkers of America, Local Municipal Workers, Local Union, Union, No. 310, State, County and No. 72, Glass Ceramic and Silicon Sand Workers, and Local Union, No. 1947, United Steelworkers of America.

The council also reported supporting the day nursery, and voted to support the drive to place CIO men on OPA boards.

The council legislative committee urged all members to register to vote in the fall. The committee also announced that every local union had sent telegrams to President Roosevelt urging him to veto the Smith-Connally bill.

There will be a special meeting June 30 in the Steel Workers Hall to work out plans for the council. Every CIO local union president and the executive board of the council are requested to be present.

Services will be under the auspices of Sosnowski Lodge No. 164, Daughters of Rebekah, and Wayside Rose, Rebekah Lodge No. 598, Kosciusko and Mizpah Encampment No. 50 will be guests at the services. A program has been arranged and the meeting will be open to the public.

Firemen, Police Ask Pay Raise

Want Rate Frozen

When the mayor commented that the fire and police departments had a voice in setting the rules governing retirements in the present pension system and that the rules now in effect had been one of the factors causing financial difficulties, Mr. Jones answered that last Thursday the firemen had met and agreed to recommend to their pension board members that the retirement pension allowances be frozen at the present level rather than at any increased level that might result from a pay increase. The pensions are based on a percentage of the salary the man earned while at work.

At the beginning of the meeting, after the city auditor had presented the city's financial picture, Mayor Snare spoke briefly, declaring the city can expect to pay all of its bills, but that its financial situation is such that "it is not safe to obligate the city further without providing for additional revenue." He said salaries were the "big" item in the city budget, taking 63 per cent of the total in 1940, 61 per cent in 1941, 62 per cent in 1942 and an estimated 65 per cent this year. "I don't see how, without additional revenue, we can appropriate for more salaries or anything else," he said.

When Councilman Perry Bachelder pointed out that city salaries in 1943 amounted to $39,000 more than in 1940, Fireman Jones declared this was due to the addition of more firemen and policemen in the intervening year. He added that putting on those men probably had stood in the way of a pay raise for those already in the department. Later, Councilman Bachelder said he didn't feel Mr. Jones had the right attitude in complaining about the additional men because he understood the city was undermanned even now. Councilman Wilhelm commented, "Maybe we should lay off half the men and give the remainder a raise." Jones answered, "It's OK with me. I can make twice as much as I'm making now."

"Could you when you went into the department?" the mayor asked.

"Nope," Jones answered.

Cites Living Costs

Earlier, in presenting the firemen's case, Jones had said in substance as follows: Surveys have shown living costs are up 40 per cent. We feel entitled to $20 a month because of living costs and feel this is not an unreasonable request. The city needs good police and fire departments. The safety department is already feeling the weakening effect of its present wages, having difficulty to get men to take jobs in the departments. You get what you pay for—I wonder what kind of men you expect to get at the present salary level. I believe some estimates of city receipts are low, the parking meter receipts for example.

You may tell us to show you where to get the money and you'll grant the raise. That's council's job to raise and disburse money and we don't pretend to be able to show you where to get it. But we believe somehow you can fix it so we can give our families what we feel they deserve.

When asked about the parking meter fund, Auditor Shaw said it now has a balance of $5,497.60 with seven months' receipts yet to come in this year.

After several councilmen had expressed themselves in favor of making any pay increases effective throughout all departments, Councilman Slack spoke briefly on his views. He declared council would like to grant increases, but the financial outlook doesn't seem to make it possible. He declared that tax rates are fixed and that council couldn't do anything to increase its income. He said council did the best it could when it granted $10 a month increases last January, adding that it is not only inadvisable but impossible to borrow money to pay salary increases. "Borrowing money to pay salaries would be the worst kind of inflation," he declared.

When asked to speak for the police department, Clyde Hardin said he felt Jones had mentioned most of the points involved, adding that in both departments men are obliged to eat some meals away from home which are more expensive then before and to pay increased costs for uniforms. He cited as examples $32 for a coat, $17 for trousers.

Councilmen Earle Johnson commented he didn't see why firemen couldn't wear fatigue clothes rather than expensive uniforms. Councilmen Wilhelm and Sells said they had made such recommendations months ago but nothing was done about it. Jones answered he understood Chief McFarland opposed any change in uniforms which he regarded as most satisfactory for the type of work to be done. He added that elimination of the uniforms wouldn't be much of a substitute for a raise. He added he felt council, if it were determined to find the money somewhere, could raise enough to meet the pay increase for the rest of the year.

Mayor Snare answered, saying "It seems to be the opinion of some that council can create funds. Council is governed by laws regulating municipalities. One law says a city can't borrow money for operating expenses or for deficit financing. And to get more revenue, council must submit to the voters an additional levy outside the legal 10 mill limitation.

Councilman Slack added that 85 per cent of the city's funds go for fixed purposes such as salaries, street lights and hydrant rentals, leaving only 12 per cent for other expenses. And, he added, much of that 12 per cent is virtually for fixed purposes Council actually has discretionary use of only about six to eight per cent of the city funds, he declared.

Blames Tax Valuation

Councilman Johnson said he felt the mistake responsible for the city's financial condition was made six years ago when properly valuations were not increased during a reappraisal. Councilman Slack added that the city now has a tax duplicate totaling 35 million dollars and a tax rate of 16.9 mills as compared with a duplicate of 54 million dollars and a rate of 24 mills back in 1925. This precipitated a discussion critical of the county budget commission and an explanation of the procedure followed in fixing the tax rates. "The city usually gets what's left," one councilman said.

When Councilman Barnhard commented that the war labor board wouldn't grant pay increases more than 15 per cent over 1941, someone commented that the WLB ruling didn't apply to municipal employes.

Jones spoke again, saying it would cost about $7,000 to grant the pay increases to the two departments for the remainder of the year. "Possibly half of that could come from parking meters—and half a loaf is better than none," he added, indicating the departments might be satisfied with somewhat less than the full $20-a-month increase. Fireman A. D. Boyd added that if council were to grant an increase that would give the departments a 15 per cent boost over their 1941 earnings, using the WLB formula, it would cost the city only $4,000 for the rest of the year.

Councilmen then talked informally a few minutes, announced they felt they had all the needed information to guide them in making a further study of the pay request, and adjourned for an executive session. Chairman Wilhelm asked that everyone excepting councilmen and other city officials leave for the caucus session, adding that the results of the meeting would be announced at the next regular council meeting Monday night.

Among those present at the conference last night were all of the councilmen excepting Council President Robert Stief and Councilman Frank Robinson, and the following city officials: Mayor Snare, Safety-Service Director Caldwell and Auditor Shaw. Firemen present were Mr. Boyd, Merle Zieg, C. W. Stafford and Mr. Jones. Policemen present were Ed Hoffman, Z. G. McClenathan, Clyde Hardin and Henry Tong.

U. S. Pilots Bag 14 Zeros Without Losing a Plane

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, June 22—American Lightnings swooped down upon a large formation of Japanese Zeros over New Guinea yesterday, destroyed at least 14—and probably 23—and came home without a single plane missing.

The 14 Zeros blew up in the air or crashed to the ground in sight of American pilots.

"The remaining nine were in flames and losing altitude," a communique from General MacArthur's headquarters said. "Their complete destruction was most probable."

There were 36 Zeros in the enemy formation when the P-38's, outnumbered about two to one, came upon them over the Lae area.

The monthly birthday party for members having anniversaries in June will be held by the Woman's Home League of the Salvation Army, Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock it was announced today by Mrs. Joseph Heard, leader. At this time also the monthly remembrance meeting for members of the Salvation Army Corps in the armed forces also will be conducted.

MORE GOVERNORS RENIG AS CANDIDATES

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., June 22—The 1944 Republican presidential nomination race is rapidly becoming a "don't count me in" affair.

Latest possible entry to "scratch" himself is 52 year old Earl Warren, husky lawyer swinging his first term as governor of California.

Like first term Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York, Warren told reporters during an interlude in the annual governors' conference he is not a candidate for any other office" that he does not "hope to be drafted." His term, like Dewey's, does not end until 1946.

Thus, Warren, a World War veteran and former attorney general of California, joined Dewey and Senators Taft of Ohio and Vandenberg of Michigan in expressing a desire to be left out of the 1944 nomination picture, leaving only Gov. John W. Bricker, of Ohio, and Wendell L. Willkie, 1940 presidential standard bearer, and a few others to announce whether they will run or not.

Research Scientist Is Lions Club Speaker

Dr. Clyde Keeler, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Keeler of 180 St. James street was guest speaker at a noon meeting of the Lions club yesterday at Hotel Harding. Dr. Keeler is well known as a research scientist and taught at Harvard university for 15 years. He gave a talk on "Genetics" and explained in detail about that branch of biology which treats of heredity and evolution.

Two new members were inducted yesterday W. P. (Hap) Ancheett and Roy W. Kauble. Guests were Jack Holloway of Scioto Ordnance Plant and C. W. McCorkle of J. C. Penney company.

Livestock Official Calls Calls for Subsidy Change

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 22 — B. B. Brumley, president of the National Live Stock Producers' association, today said that "government control programs which are responsible for making it uneconomical to feed live stock should and must be either changed or eliminated."

In a statement, prepared for delivery to the mid-summer meeting of the association, Brumley said, "under present OPA ceilings for beef, the cattle feeder cannot pay for the cost of his raw materials, his labor and other items and hope to hold his money together."

Commenting on the government's food subsidy program, Brumley said that rolling back the price of meat at the consumer level "will only add to the consumer's buying power and cause him to desire and demand more meat." This, Brumley asserted, "is inflationary itself."

RAF BOMBS CHANGE MAP OF BERLIN, SWEDES SAY

Some Areas Not Recognizable After March Raids.

By The Associated Press

STOCKHOLM, June 22—Travellers returning to Sweden from Germany report so much of Berlin has been "plowed up" by intensive RAF bombings that "many quarters cannot be recognized."

Information on the bomb damage inflicted by the intensive March bombardments has been slow in seeping out of Germany as the Nazis rigidly control travel in the affected areas.

Among places damaged by bombs are the former Russian embassy, the American Express Travel bureau, and the residence of Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, German propaganda minister.

Prebyterians Down Greenwood In Wild-Scoring Tilt; Epworth Sinks Irish

Highest scoring and wildest game of Marion's 1943 softball season was played last night at Garfield park when the First Presbyterian team defeated Greenwood, 21 to 13. In a more conservative contest at Lincoln park, Epworth downed St. Mary's, 7 to 0, to maintain its undisputed hold on first place in the Sunday School league.

Presbyterian amassed its amazing run total on 17 hits. Greenwood banged out only 10 safeties. However, five errors and seven walks on both sides were responsible to no small degree for the "football" scores.

Leading the Presbie offensive were Jim Rissler and Marshall Fuck, both of whom slapped home runs. Dutch Brown, Presbs outfielder, proved consistent at the plate with three hits out of four times up. Rissler also displayed proficiency in this department by getting four for five.

Melbourne Donaugh, Greenie hurler, fanned eight Presbies but issued seven free passes. The combined efforts of Roberts and Young, Presbyterian mound men, could not produce a single strikeout. However, they walked seven batters between them.

Bob Virden, Epworth pitcher, was "on" last night as he allowed St. Mary only two hits, a single and a double. In batting shutout ball, he fanned five and showed top-notch control by giving only one Saint free passes to first base. T. Moran, St. Mary pitcher, did not whiff a single Methodist but walked three.

Smart, Epworth second baseman, blasted a four bagger in the sixth inning with no one on base. Hilton took batting honors, however, with three singles in three trips to the plate. These safeties included a single, double, and a triple. He also personally tallied two of the Methodist runs.

The fourth inning was the big Epworth frame, three runs crossing the plate in that stanza on only two hits. Two walks by Moran opened that inning, followed by two singles and a costly error.

Score by innings:

	R.	H.	E.
St. Mary	0 0 0 0 0 0 0 —	0	2
Epworth	0 1 0 1 2 3 x —	7	4
Batteries: St. Mary—T. Moran and D. Moran; Epworth—Virden and C. Reed.
Presbyterian	3 0 1 1 5 3 x —	21	17
Greenwood	3 1 0 0 1 0 0 —	13	10
Batteries: Presbyterian—Roberts, Young and M. Fuck; Greenwood—M. Donaugh and R. Donaugh.

Wage Adjustments Given Marion Truck Drivers

The war labor board has approved wage and salary adjustments retroactive to Jan. 1, 1943, for truck drivers and helpers who are members of Local No. 632, Teamsters union, AFL, and who are employed by the Millard Hunt Co. and the Marion Lumber Co.

Word of the board's action was received here by company and union officials in notifications from the regional WLB office in Cleveland.

The board increased wage scale for regular drivers from 60 to 70 cents an hour and for drivers of concrete mixer trucks from 70 to 90 cents an hour.

NOTICE

Elizabeth Eaton and William Ea- ton, her husband, whose places of residence are unknown and cannot be ascertained, will take notice that on the 26th day of April, 1943, the plaintiff, Herbert R. Ford, filed his petition against them in the Com- mon Pleas Court of Marion County, Ohio, the same being Cause No. 27412 in said Court, for the fore- closure of certain real estate in said petition described, to-wit:

Situated in the County of Marion in the State of Ohio, and in the Township of Montgomery and bounded and described as follows:

Beginning at a point in the mid- dle of the public highway three hundred and eighty five (385) feet west by south from the northeast corner of Montgomery Township, Marion County, Ohio; thence west by south thirty two (32) feet along the middle of said highway; thence one hundred (100) feet south by east; thence thirty two (32) feet east by north; thence one hundred (100) feet north by west to the point of beginning, being a part of the northeast quarter of Section One (1) of Montgomery Township, Marion County, Ohio.

Also, the following: Known as south of Range No. Thirteen (13) being a part of the northeast quar- ter of Section one (1), in Township number five (5), commencing in the center of the highway, nineteen (19) rods southwesterly of the southeast corner of Montgomery Township, commencing formerly at Jacob Schultz northwest corner in the middle of the highway, thence running southwesterly seventy three (73) feet, thence southeast one hun- dred (100) feet from the center of said highway; thence southwest sixty (60) feet; thence southeast twenty (20) feet; thence northeast parallel with the sixty foot line, a distance of sixty six (66) feet; thence northwest parallel with the aforesaid one hundred foot line, a distance of about one hundred and twenty (120) feet to the center of the aforesaid public highway; thence southwesterly on the center of said public highway six (6) feet.

Reserving however, for driveway purposes for the owner on the East, his heirs and assigns forever, the joint use of said six foot strip which is one hundred and twenty (120) feet long for driveway pur- poses. Said driveway strip being the east part of the lands herein con- veyed subject to said use.

There is also granted to said Grantees their heirs and assigns forever, the joint use with the ad- joining owner on the east, his heirs and assigns forever, the right to use for driveway purposes only, a strip six (6) feet wide and one hundred twenty (120) feet long, lying immediately to and adjoining the aforesaid six (6) foot strip on the east.

It being the intention of this deed in addition to conveying the abso- lute title to part of the aforesaid lands to convey all their rights, titles and interest in the twelve (12) foot driveway established be- tween Charles M. Cookston and wife and the said Herbert R. Ford. See Deed Records of Marion County, Ohio, Vol. 150, Page 148, to which reference is here made.

It being the intention of this deed, in so far as said driveway is concerned to convey to said Grant- ees their heirs and assigns forever all the right, title and interest Grantors had in said driveway es- tablished by the aforesaid recorded deed.

The prayer of said petition is for the foreclosure of said real estate and for other equitable relief. Said defendants are required to answer said petition on the 24th day of July, 1943, or judgment will be taken against them.

Herbert R. Ford, Plaintiff.

STOCKS FEEL STRIKE EFFECT

Market in Doldrums with Domestic Complications Blamed As Cause.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 22—The coal labor controversy and other do- mestic complications, rather than the foreign news, kept the stock market in the doldrums today with leaders generally slipping to further lower levels.

On the offside most of the time were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Wool- worth and General Electric. Oc- casional plus marks were record- ed for International Harvester, Anaconda and Westinghouse.

WHEAT FLUCTUATES IN UNEASY MARKET

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 22—Wheat fu- tures fluctuated nervously over a range of almost a cent a bushel today. Cash interests were sell- ers, while shorts and milling in- terests were buyers on the de- clines. Uncertainties over the im- position of ceiling prices on wheat contributed to the uneasiness of the market. Weakness of oats and rye was another factor.

FIGURES IN CHANGE IN ERIE PERSONNEL

Cleveland Agent To Retire After 40 Years' Work.

James M. Skaehill, assistant general freight agent for the Erie Railroad at Cleveland, has an- nounced that because of ill health and at his own request, he will retire July 1, after 40 years of service. He will be succeeded by Charles R Martin, division freight agent at Jamestown, N. Y.

Mr. Martin has been in Erie service since 1917. From 1922 to 1936 he was clerk, commercial agent, and traveling freight agent at Cleveland. Before going to Jamestown, he was general agent at Columbus, division freight agent at Youngstown, and general agent at Albany.

Succeeding Mr. Martin at Rochester will be Harry G. Cooke, division freight agent at Roches- ter, N. Y. since 1941. His ap- pointment becomes effective July 1. He was general freight agent at Albany before going to Roches- ter. George F. Mills, chief clerk to Erie Vice-Traffic President H. W. Von Miller in Cleveland, will replace Mr. Cooke at Rochester.

Other appointments, effective July 1, include George T. Dolan, commercial agent in Boston since 1937, to a similar position in St. Louis; and John W. Cloud, com- mercial agent in St. Louis since 1939, as general agent in Peoria, Ill.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

"I DON'T know how my father will manage it," I continued, "but you may be sure he has something in mind which will keep Ruth Hayes from suspecting that our plan is not according to schedule. Unless, of course, she tries to get you to come into our room with her in that case, confidence and quick and effective. But all these details must be left to my father. I know nothing more to tell you. Be at my apartment at seven, or a little after, tomorrow morning—I must have to leave myself at seven-thirty—dressed for the street, and carrying this empty bag and your purse, of course. My father will give you all other instructions."

"I'll be there," Olina said, and seeing her mother look at her sharply, I knew that she had heard, as I had, the excited lilt in her daughter's voice which revealed how thrilled she was at the prospect of this adventure.

"And I'll be there to welcome you," I told her, rising.

Madge Departs

"I really must go back," I said. "I have work to do."

"Then we shouldn't keep you," Olina said, smiling, "although you know how reluctantly I always let you go."

They all went with me to the door, and as I left them, I heard Olina's voice as the door closed. "Oh! Mumsie! Papa Verstzen! What an exciting adventure!"

She was young enough to get a real thrill out of the experience, I told myself, then reminded myself with amusement that I was every bit as excited and thrilled as Olina over the prospective melodrama of the next day.

I schooled my face and manner to composure however, as I alighted from the elevator at my floor, and saw my husband walking ahead of me toward our door.

"Dicky!" I called softly, and he turned and looked at me with eyebrows grotesquely elevated.

"So this is what I find," he said, "when I fly on the wings of the wind to answer a summons from my spouse! Instead of her waiting rapturously at home to welcome me, I find her gallivanting around the corridors of this hostelry, and that's a two dollar word, I'll have you know. Where have you been, Woman? Answer me!"

Back Home Again

He had slipped his hand under my elbow when he had come up to me, and was walking me swiftly to our own door. Almost breathless with the rapid gait and delighted laughter, I released myself as we came toward the door, and gave a signaling knock.

"If you'll ever stop talking," I told him, as Katherine opened the door, "I'll tell you everything."

"You bet you'll tell me all," he threatened darkly, "or there'll be ructions in the Graham family which will take blue ribbons in the ruction line."

"Will you two stop squabbling and get in here?" Katharine greeted us. Then, closing the door again, she added: "You're altogether too early, Dicky. You weren't expected for a half hour, and it lacks ten minutes of that time."

He gave her a deeply reproachful look.

"Et tu, Brute, or whatever is the feminine of Brutus," he said. "Here I run my little legs off to get here ahead of time, and my wife has sneaked off to see some party behind my back, and her friend reproaches me for getting here too soon. Kindly let me as if you can make up your minds about something."

Advice from Katharine

"There, there," Katharine assured him, "but your wife and your father-in-law are, and you will probably suppose you close that good-looking mouth of yours and let your wife tell you what's up."

He raised both hands high above his head.

"Don't shoot!" he said. "I'll do anything you say. I know when I'm licked."

I pushed forward a chair, and took one myself. "Sit down," I said. "Yes, smoke, and I'll tell you what Father has on hand."

Rapidly I sketched the emergency which had developed in the last hour, the demand for Olina to get money by a supposed note from Georges and deliver it to a woman at a downtown hotel, and the change in my father's plans which would make it unnecessary for Katharine to keep the rendezvous at the Myers apartment, but which might bring Ruth Hayes to the Lansfield in an endeavor to see Katharine or me.

"I'd like to see her try it!" Dicky announced truculently.

"That's just what Father wishes you to do," I said.

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Medical Ally

The electric light was a great invention and when they made electric lamps small enough so that they would go into any part of the body, the medical world started something which certainly would have surprised the fathers of medicine of 75 years ago.

Of course, 75 years ago the medical fathers had more or less gotten used to being able to see up the nose and into the ear and down the throat and into the back of the eye, but they had never conceived of an electric light connected with a series of mirrors in a tube so small that it would go down into the stomach and be able the reveal the entire surface of that organ.

The instrument which examines the stomach (the gastroscope) is only the latest of the many electrically lighted instruments which have been devised to explore the cavities of the body. I have not doubt that some day—even before I die—somebody will have an electric instrument that will go down along a hair follicle and watch the hair grow.

As a matter of fact, this is not at all impossible and reminds us of the old sneer of one of the men who, when the stethoscope was first introduced into England, wanted to know whether you could put one end to the ground and the other to your ear and hear the grass grow.

The whole group of these instruments are called endoscopes and the science is called endoscopy, but it doesn't mix. Every man has to specialize in his own form of endoscope and to ask an oculist, who looks at the back of your eye with an ophthalmoscope, to interpret what he would see in the stomach with a gastroscope would be to make a life-long enemy of him. In fact, the mere suggestion would probably throw him into shock.

They are wonderful little gadgets, but it takes the specialist at the other end to interpret what he sees. In other words, the most important part about Johnny at the rat-hole is not the rat-hole but Johnny.

They fascinate me and some of my younger friends are kind enough to allow me to take a look occasionally through one of their instruments. For instance, one is called the peritoneoscope, which has saved many a person from operation. It is used to look at the organs inside the abdomen.

All the surgeon has to do is to give the patient a local anesthetic, make a small hole in the skin of the abdomen under aspetic conditions, put in the peritoneoscope, turn on the light and look around. It hurts very little—not one-thousandth ume as much as a regular operation on the abdomen—and the information which the surgeon gets is often enough to prevent any further operative procedure or to indicate just how much should be done.

When, as I say, some of my younger friends are kind enough to let me look through one of these things, I have the greatest confidence in what they see, but all I see myself is something that looks kind of red and bubbly and shiny, so I am afraid I will never get much advantage out of the instrument to poke down a hair follicle and watch the hair grow. I am going to have to wait—as I always have—until those hairs get long and thick enough to grab with a pair of tweezers and then give them a good, old-fashioned 19th century yank.

The Stars Say—

For Wednesday, June 23

ACCORDING TO the predominant lunar aspects, bearing rule on the affairs of this day, all may not be plain sailing. There are signs of delays, obstacles or other frustrating conditions. However, by the exercise of good judgment success and needed cooperation may be gained and much enduring headway won against obstacle and disappointment. The personal slant may have something to do with this fortunate turn of events.

Those whose birthday it is may be confronted by a set of circumstances which may challenge their ability to rise above obstacles. Decisive but shrewd action may be called for and it may not be amiss to utilize judiciously the personal element.

A child born on this day may have to forcefully manipulate its practical and constructive ability and energies to overcome certain depressing, delaying and frustrating conditions. Its personality and strength of character should be exercised for success.

Don't spend your pay in competition with your neighbors for scarce civilian goods. Save, America, and you will save America from black markets and runaway inflation. Buy more Bonds every payday. How many bonds? Figure it out yourself.
